HISTORICAL SKETCH

At the point where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio, soon after 1758 came the first settlement of what was ultimately the City of Pittsburgh. In the great migration of peoples into the West, it served as the natural gateway for travelers by boat or by wagon. Numerous colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians came to the Western Pennsylvania counties bordering these waterways and built there farm homes and churches. Others, later, joined the ever-rolling procession to the plains of the Mississippi basin and beyond.

Wherever Presbyterians went they carried a demand for education. Piety and learning were never separated; and the crowning glory of all education was the study of theology. Throughout this area were schools and academies in close association with the Presbyterian churches. Three of them; namely, Amity and Prosperity under Thaddeus Dodd, Upper Buffalo under Joseph Smith, and the Chartiers Church under John McMillan, gave instruction in theology to a number of young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Dodd held classes at Amity as early as 1781. There is a direct line of descent from these pioneer schools to the Western Theological Seminary.

During the first quarter of the nineteenth century, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware of the need of specialized, professional training for ministerial candidates beyond the college level and of the experience of life within a Christian community of fellow students. Princeton Theological Seminary was established in 1813, and some twelve years later came the Western Theological Seminary in 1825, in a city that faced the continually receding horizon of the West.

The first classes met in 1827 with two instructors and four students. In the one hundred and twenty-five years since that year, three thousand six hundred and fifty-three students have registered at the Seminary, and, of these, two thousand and sixty-three have gone forth bearing degrees. The faculty of the Western Theological Seminary through the years has been composed of eminent churchmen and scholars: Luther Halsey, John W. Nevin, Melancthon W. Jacobus, Alexander A. Hodge, Benjamin B. Warfield, Matthew B. Riddle, David S. Schaff, James H. Snowden, and James A. Kelso. These men have bequeathed to the school a tone of high scholarship and humble devotion, which are the dominant elements in the Seminary life to this day.

The missionary interest has ever been strong. Elisha P. Swift, one of the first instructors, was the executive secretary of the original Western Foreign Missionary Society which later became the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The first missionaries to India, John C. Lowrie and William Reed, were members of the class of 1829.

The main function of the Western Theological Seminary has been the training of ministers for the pastorate, whether urban or rural. The abiding concern of both its faculty and the administrative officers has been directed toward the preparing of young men for this glorious task. Although a number of our candidates throughout a century and a quarter have taken up the more specialized ministry of foreign missionary or college teaching, the greatest number enter the pastorate.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by the President, Vice-President, and Dean. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The administrative officers, together with a representative of the Board of Trustees, are members of the Council on Theological Education of the Presbyterian Church. The Seminary is a member in good standing of the American Association of Theological Schools and is fully accredited by that body.

Although the Western Theological Seminary has represented the main stream of Presbyterian thought and has been free of extremes in both theology and practice, it has been warmly hospitable to students from all the major evangelical bodies.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, are located the offices of the Dean, Registrar, and Business Manager.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished except for personal toilet articles.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china, and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required, from which are deducted all breakage costs.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall. All residents, except those living in apartments, are required to eat in the refectory. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

Marvin Social Hall, located on the ground floor in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for parties and other social events.

The Gymnasium, located in the north wing of the ground floor, has adequate facilities for basketball, volleyball, handball, and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is supplied for physical exercise, and a shower and locker room adjoin the gymnasium.

Lowrie Hall, next door to Memorial Hall, is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children, varying in size from suites of two rooms with kitchenette and bath to apartments with five rooms. Nominal rentals are charged and vary according to the size of the apartment. Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Three of the apartments have two bedrooms and four have one bedroom. Bedding, linens, silverware, china, and cooking utensils must be provided by each family. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required, from which are deducted all breakage costs.

In regard to apartments, thirty days' notice of change must be given by the Seminary and tenants. First-year applicants already married are given priority for apartments. Other applications are reviewed individually and assignments made by the Administration.

808 Ridge Avenue, the recent gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company to the Seminary, is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road, adjacent to Memorial Hall. This four-story brick structure houses dormitories, classrooms, and the offices of the president, vice-president, and faculty. A modern students' lounge provides a restful atmosphere for reading and relaxation.

Plans for the Future include completion of the quadrangle with new chapel, east wing, and landscaped court.

LIBRARY

The library of seventy thousand volumes is one of the glories of the Western Seminary. It began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by Alexander Campbell and has received notable additions from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields, and N. W. Conkling funds, and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete of its kind in this country, is available to students of English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library is housed in Swift Hall. It consists of a spacious reading room, a browsing room, the librarian's office, a study room for the faculty and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The library subscribes to over one hundred periodicals representing the main denominational divisions in America and offering a broad survey of theological thought both here and in Europe.

ADVANTAGES OF PITTSBURGH

The city of Pittsburgh, located where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality and every profession and skill. Consequently, students have an excellent opportunity to observe industrial and labor conditions.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Pennsylvania College for Women are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and various Carnegie free libraries, together with the great university and college libraries, offer their vast resources to all students. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, the various concert series, the choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music. Pittsburgh is the home of the International Exhibition of Contemporary Painting held each year at the galleries of the Carnegie Institute, where there are also displayed loan exhibitions of many other forms of art.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. Erected in 1939 at a cost of one and one-half million dollars, it furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations are represented in the Pittsburgh area and afford the students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in both its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the third largest presbytery in the Presbyterian Church. Within its bounds are one hundred and thirty-three churches with a total membership of eighty thousand. Of these, about twenty have more than a thousand members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

Once known as the "Smoky City," Pittsburgh is now attaining distinction as a clean city. More impressive than its Smoke-Control Program, however, is Pittsburgh's Point Park Program, its vast network of newly constructed parkways, a planned civic arena, a new airport which is the second largest in the country, and many other improvements to this historic city.

DEPARTMENT OF FIELD SERVICE

Western Seminary is fortunate in the fact that it is located in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world. The many churches of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia provide opportunities for students in city, suburban, and rural situations.

The Department of Field Service, under the supervision of the Director of Field Service, assists students in securing opportunities for service in churches in this area where they may gain experience in many practical aspects of the Christian ministry. Such service may be as student ministers, pastors' assistants, supply preachers, youth work and church school leaders, or social settlement workers. Financial remuneration is commensurate with the service rendered. The benefits derived by the student in practical experience and material rewards are important; but neither is the primary consideration. The basic criterion of field service effort is the value of the service the student renders to the church which he serves.

The Department endeavors to direct students to opportunities where their abilities may best be suited. However, no assurance may be given any student of a particular appointment, for the decision rests with the church or organization concerned.

Field work experiences and problems are integrated with classroom instruction and seminars, thus giving to each a richer educational value. The extent of the field service responsibilities a student is permitted to assume may be determined by his academic performance. A student whose academic average falls below a certain specified standard may be asked to discontinue his field activity or to reduce the number of courses carried.

Reports of their field work activities are submitted by the students to the Director of Field Service. Faculty counsel is given where necessary. Further opportunity for discussion of special problems is provided in courses under the Department of Pastoral Theology.

SENIOR WORSHIP SERVICE

Each member of the senior class is required to conduct a service of public worship, with sermon, attended by the faculty, student body, and friends. This is an essential part of the spiritual life of the Seminary and is to be conducted in a manner which preserves the best values and noblest traditions of worship. Conferences with the professors of homiletics and public worship and other professors follow each service.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

STUDENT PRESBYTERY

The student body of the Seminary is organized as a Student Presbytery in accordance with the Presbyterian system of government, and meets on the first Wednesday of each month. Its officers are the Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer. The Junior, Middler, and Senior classes are organized in a similar fashion. The standing committees are the Christian Life Committee, Athletic Committee, Social Committee, Social Education and Action Committee, Inter-Seminary Committee, and Student-Faculty Relations Committee. The professors are ex officio members of the Student Presbytery and of their assigned standing committees.

STUDENT DEVOTIONAL LIFE

Students who are not engaged in pulpit or church school responsibilities on Sunday are expected to relate themselves to one of the churches in the city and thus to be under pastoral care.

Regular morning chapel services are held each day, Tuesday through Friday, under the leadership of the members of the middler and senior classes and the faculty. On the Wednesday of each week, the entire school gathers for a conference hour conducted by invited speakers who are leaders in fields of interest to the ministry.

In addition to these scheduled services, the devotional committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the group prayer life of the students. The committee supervises a brief period of devotions in the dining hall following the evening meal. One day of each school year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer; classes are omitted, and the entire day is devoted to prayer and meditation. Students are expected to attend all services.

THE CHOIR

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed at present of students, students' wives, and members of the staff. They meet for practice and sociability Wednesday night of each week and present occasional choral worship services for the student body as well as outside the Seminary.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A good gymnasium, equipped with lockers and shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. provides courtesy memberships, with the privilege of the swimming pool, to seminary students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Parties and teas are held throughout the year in Marvin Social Hall and provide many occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association contributes appreciably to the social life of the institution.

PRE-SEMINARY COLLEGE CURRICULUM

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS

ENTRANCE PROCEDURES

Western Theological Seminary offers courses in theology to those preparing for the Christian ministry or related fields of service, and to those who desire a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith. Women are admitted as full-time or part-time students on the same basis as men. Members of the student body fall into several classifications: partial, special, graduate, and undergraduate.

Partial students are those who are practicing clergymen, usually of another denomination, who do not hold college degrees; or laymen who hold college degrees but are not necessarily preparing for a Christian vocation. These may enroll for a limited amount of work upon presentation of a formal application and after a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Special students are those who wish to specialize in the work of a particular department rather than take the full curriculum. Arrangements may be made for such a program with the head of the particular department. Special students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, college transcript, letters from the home pastor and college administration, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Graduate students are those who hold college and seminary degrees, enrolled in a degree or non-degree program, either full time or part time. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, seminary transcript, letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Undergraduate students are those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See Requirements for Admission that follow.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

A Formal Application, to be found at the back of the catalogue, must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Seminary. This must be supported by the following credentials:

Application Fee

A check or money order for ten dollars must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. The application fee is not returnable if the application is withdrawn. It is refunded if the applicant is rejected.

Photograph

A small, recent photograph or snapshot must accompany the application. This will be retained in the applicant's file.

College Transcript

A record of the applicant's college work to date is required at the time the application is submitted. Upon completion of his college work, the applicant must submit a final transcript showing the date of graduation and the degree received. The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited college or university.

Letters of Recommendation

A letter must be submitted from the applicant's home pastor, certifying as to the applicant's character, abilities, and general aptitudes for the Christian ministry.

A letter must be submitted from the ecclesiastical body in authority over the applicant's church, certifying that the applicant has been approved by the body as a candidate for the gospel ministry. Applicants who have not been officially received under the care of their respective ecclesiastical authorities at the time of application must arrange for this letter to be submitted immediately after such formal action has been taken.

A letter must be submitted from the Dean of the college, certifying as to the applicant's capacities to pursue graduate study.

Personal Interview

A personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary is highly desirable. Where this is not feasible, a letter giving the applicant's educational, family, and religious background, as well as his views of and plans for the Christian ministry, is required.

Certificate of Health

A statement from a physician certifying to the applicant's physical health must be submitted before seminary training is begun.

Psychological Tests

In conformity with the recommendation of the American Association of Theological Schools, every undergraduate student is required to submit to a series of tests for aptitudes, personality, and intelligence, under the direction of Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor with the Department of Christian Education. Those who have not taken them previous to entering Seminary will do so in the course of the orientation program.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of work taken at the seminary and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or other administrative official.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

MATRICULATION

As he begins his seminary study, each student is expected to take the Matriculation Pledge, which has been subscribed to by all entering students since 1829, as follows:

"Deeply impressed with a sense of the need of improving in knowledge, prudence, and piety in my preparation for the gospel ministry, I solemnly promise, in reliance on divine grace, that I will faithfully and diligently attend to all the instructions of this Seminary, and that I will conscientiously and vigilantly observe all the rules and regulations specified in the Plan for its instruction and government, so far as the same relate to the students; and that I will obey all the lawful requisitions and readily yield to all the wholesome admonitions of the Professors and Directors of the Seminary while I shall continue as a member of it."

ACADEMIC STANDARDS

A student is on probation during the first semester of his enrollment. It is not permissible for a student to take courses at another institution during the Seminary year, except by special consent of the Faculty.

A student must maintain a C average (1 quality point) in order to carry a full schedule of courses. A student falling below this minimum in any one semester will be required to carry a reduced schedule in the ensuing semester.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	90% to 100%	3	quality points
B	80% to 89%	2	“ “
C	70% to 79%	1	“ “
D	60% to 69%	0	“ “
F	Failure	0	“ “
I	Incomplete	0	“ “

Examinations are given in most courses throughout the period of the semester, with final examinations being given before the semester's close. A student who fails an examination is permitted to take a re-examination. A second failure may result in the loss of the student's class standing or in his being classified as a partial student. A fee will be charged for an examination given at a later date when a student's absence from the regular examination was unexcused.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE
B. D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 103 semester hours' work.
2. Presentation of a thesis written in the student's major field. (Thesis subjects must be approved by December 1 of the academic year in which the degree is to be conferred, by the head of the department in which the thesis is to be written. The thesis, satisfactorily completed, must be in the hands of the professor by April 1 of that year.)
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.

GRADUATE STUDIES

MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must be in residence at this seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours per week of regular curriculum work. Distribution of courses between the major and minor subjects will be determined in each instance by the professor in whose department the thesis is to be written, and the Dean. Where possible, two thirds of the total hours must be devoted to the department of the major subject and the remainder to the minor.
3. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by the major professor.
4. The candidate, at the close of the year, must pass rigid examinations, both oral and written, in the major and minor fields of study.

Note: No candidate may receive the Bachelor of Divinity degree and the Master of Theology degree at the same Commencement.

DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must pass satisfactorily a preliminary qualifying examination in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; theology, including philosophy and ethics; Christian education (this may be optional, depending upon the student's preparation in the field); and practical theology, including homiletics. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Preliminary qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.

3. The candidate must select one field of major study and, with the advice of his major professor, submit to the committee on graduate studies for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. He must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the committee on graduate studies.
4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations in the major and minor fields, followed by oral examinations conducted by the committee on graduate studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.
5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages. He must submit to examinations in these languages and pass them satisfactorily before he commences research for his dissertation.
6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation on a piece of original investigation or a project on parish or institutional activities of the church.
7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities and who wish to transfer to this seminary must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the committee on curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the committee on graduate studies of the faculty.

MASTER OF ARTS IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The churches are offering more opportunities for women professionally trained to serve as directors of Christian education and pastors' assistants than there are persons qualified to accept them. Western Seminary, in co-operation with the University of Pittsburgh, is now helping to meet this need. College graduates can secure the degree of Master of Arts, with a major in religious education, from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

ADVANCED DEGREES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The postgraduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to students of the Seminary. The requirements for the Master of Arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh are twenty-four course credits and six thesis credits; for the Doctor of Philosophy degree, seventy-two course credits and six thesis credits. These are semester credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the graduate faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the seminary who desire to secure credits at the University:

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary who desire to take the Master of Arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of religious education may transfer as many as fourteen semester credits from the seminary as advanced standing toward these degrees. The remaining ten course credits and six thesis credits required for the Master of Arts degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. These ten course credits need not be taken in religious education. Certain courses in education, sociology, history, philosophy, psychology, and other fields are open to theological students. Candidates for the degree of Master of Education with emphasis in religious education come under the same ruling.

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary may be allowed a maximum of thirty credits as advanced standing toward the Doctor of Philosophy or the Doctor of Education degree in religious education. As many as six additional credits toward a doctor's degree may be granted for courses taken beyond the three-year theological course.

A regular summer session or a semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh or elsewhere unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Authorization in writing must be secured by the student from the Dean of the Seminary.

34. Elements of Accadian. A beginner's course in Assyro-Babylonian. Elective.

35. Elements of North West Semitic. Decipherment, translation, and analysis of early Canaanite and Aramaic inscriptions, and investigation of their bearing on Old Testament studies. Elective.

New Testament

DR. SWAIM, DR. MCCLOY, AND STAFF

A knowledge of New Testament Greek is required for graduation. Students who have not had college Greek take Course 101; others take Course 102.

101. Greek Grammar. This course is designed for students who have had no previous preparation in Greek. The aim is to prepare them to read the Greek New Testament. Machen's New Testament Greek for Beginners is the text. The second semester continues grammatical and lexical study. Reading and exegesis of selected New Testament passages commenced as soon as possible. First and second semesters. Juniors. Required.

102. Advanced Reading in Greek. This course is designed for students who have had beginning Greek in college. Selected passages from the New Testament are read with particular attention to syntax, style, and the art of translating. A study is made of certain contemporary Hellenistic texts. First and second semesters.

112. New Testament Exegesis. Exegesis of portions of the Pauline letters chosen to familiarize the student with details of the apostle's thought and experience. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required. Dr. Swaim.

121. New Testament Introduction and History. The historical and political background, both Jewish and pagan; the relation of the New Testament to the Old; the Oriental conception of authorship; Palestinian geography and customs as illuminating narrative and discourse; the origin, purpose, and character of each of the twenty-seven books that make up the New Testament. Three hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required. Dr. Swaim.

122. The Gospels. An examination of critical theories regarding their origin; their transmission to us through manuscript and translation; the Synoptic outline and the Johannine interpretation of the life of Christ; sayings and deeds of Jesus as understood in the light of their setting. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required. Dr. Swaim.

123. New Testament Theology. A study of the teachings of the New Testament regarding God's redeeming grace, made known in Christ, and man's response in faith, hope, and love. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Dr. Swaim.

131. The New Testament and the Work of the Pastor. A study of the Gospels and Epistles for the guidance and practical help they give the minister in understanding the pastoral office, in his own personal life, in his leadership of public worship, in his dealings with congregations and official boards, in his ministry to individuals, in the cure of souls, and in his responsibilities as churchman and citizen. Two hours weekly. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. Swaim.

132. Selected Problems of New Testament Study. A seminar course for qualified students desiring to do advanced work in this field. Dr. Swaim.

133. The Gospel and Society. A study of "God's design" as disclosed in "the pattern shown upon the mountain," and "man's disorder" as reflected in contemporary conditions; New Testament resources for the ministry of reconciliation in the present day. Two hours weekly. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. Swaim.

134. The Minister and His New Testament. The New Testament and the minister himself—the nature of his office, the management of his time, his responsibilities as churchman and citizen; methods of studying the New Testament and of presenting it to people; the use of the New Testament in public worship and its relation to the life of the congregation. Two hours weekly. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. Swaim.

135. The New Testament and the Cure of Souls. Starting from the Johannine assertion that Jesus knew "what was in human nature," this course considers how Jesus and the Apostles dealt with individuals; New Testament techniques that help the pastor now in ministering to persons. Two hours weekly. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. Swaim.

Christian Education

DR. CLYDE

601. Introduction to Christian Education. This course provides a general and basic approach to the communication of the Christian Gospel in the development of the Christian life, through procedures generally called "educational." The philosophy and history of Christian education are surveyed; and students are guided in methods and procedures of the type with which they are likely to be concerned as student assistants and pastors. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required.

602. Methods in Christian Education. A specialized study of methods of Christian teaching. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required.

603. The Presbyterian Program of Christian Education. Students will be introduced to the program of Christian education of the Presbyterian church. The pastor's leadership and participation in the program will be emphasized, and a study will be made of the several age levels for which the program is developed. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required.

610. The Secular Curriculum of Our Time. What do people today read and hear? What are the results in their lives? What implications are there in these matters for those who would teach men Christianity? Elective.

611. The Development of the Christian Life. A comprehensive study will be made of the factors entering into the development of the Christian life—psychological, social, intellectual, devotional, and historical. The purpose will be to assist the students to learn how to contribute most effectively to the achievement of fuller Christian personalities both in themselves and in others. Elective.

612. Field Work Seminar. Supervised field work, with regular conferences, will be accredited up to two semester credits. Elective.

613. The Christian Education of Children. A comprehensive study of the Christian education of children from the junior age down. Elective.

614. The Christian Education of Youth. A comprehensive study of the Christian education of junior and senior hi-schoolers and college young people. Elective.

615. The Christian Education of Adults. A comprehensive study of the Christian education of young adults and adults. Elective.

616. Drama and Visual Aids in Christian Education. The emphasis will vary with the interest of the class. A survey will be made of the general field, however, with principles stated and practice developed. Elective.

617. History of Christian Education (Thesis Course). Under the direction of the professor, students will undertake individual projects concerning selected phases of the history of Christian education. Credit will depend upon the quantity and quality of work done. Elective.

618. Creative Christian Writing. Students will be guided in the production of original Christian literature such as study courses, hymns, essays, fiction, drama, letters, devotional material. Elective.

619. The Curriculum of Christian Education. The curriculum materials obtainable from the various sources will be examined and evaluated, and problems of curriculum met by the parish minister will be investigated. Elective.

620. Christian Education in Presbyterian History. The place of Christian education in the history of the Presbyterian Church, including its philosophy, forms, and methods, will be studied and related to the place of Christian education in the general history of the American Church. Elective.

621. Christian Education and the Modern State. How has the modern state affected Christian education? Where Christian education is concerned, what ought the Church to expect of the state, the state to expect of the Church? What about specific matters like released time religious education and state assistance of parochial education? Elective.

622. Methods in Christian Education. A specialized study of methods of Christian teaching with participation in practice teaching. Elective.

623. The Communicants' Class. Training in preparing of candidates for full or communing membership in the Church. Elective.

624. The Church and the Home. Investigation of the relations of Church and home, and possible efforts to encourage the home to take a fuller part in the Christian development of life; marital counseling involved. Elective.

625. Problems in Christian Education (Seminar). The course will be organized about the particular needs and interests of the class. The objective will be to produce more effective teachers, organizers, and administrators in the education phase of the Church's work. Elective.

626. Teaching the Bible. A study of methods of teaching the Bible combined with a survey of the contents of the Bible and a consideration of Biblical critical problems having special importance in the teaching of the Bible. Special students in Christian education and seminary students by permission. Elective.

627. Seminar: Toward Christian Social Education and Action. The Christian and educational approach to social problems will be discussed, together with the teaching of the Christian principles and practices involved. Contemporary issues will be faced.

Courses Offered at the University of Pittsburgh

717. The Protestant Approach to the Sects. A study of religious movements within the United States, like Mormonism, Christian Science, Swedenborgianism, and the Jehovah's Witnesses; and the message and strategy of the Church in relation to them. Elective. Dr. Clyde.

32. Elements of Arabic (see page 27).

211. The Expansion of Christianity (see page 29).

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to eight hundred dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 85 per cent. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for the 1952-53 assignment is Revelation 1-3; and for 1953-54 it is Romans 1-3.

4. In September 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for the 1952-53 assignment is Genesis 49:10; for 1953-54 it is Isaiah 9:1-6.

5. In February 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shady-side Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester.

Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Dean by not later than the first week of classes, their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination.

The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

LATIN—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

CLASSICAL GREEK—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

HEBREW—Hebrew grammar, translation of Hebrew, Hebrew composition

GERMAN—Translation of German into English and English into German

FRENCH—Translation of French into English and English into French

PHILOSOPHY—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

HISTORY—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A. D. 476; (c) Medieval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

OTHER SUBJECTS on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

8. In May 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

9. In July 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:"

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world, additional endowments are imperative.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

The Elmer H. and Carrie A. Douglass Memorial Scholarship Fund is the gift, by Dr. DeVerne Abbott and Mr. Fred Abbott, of Columbus, Ohio, of funds left for that purpose by the Reverend Elmer H. Douglass and Carrie A. Douglass, to assist students in preparation for missionary or regular pastoral work.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

At the point where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio, soon after 1758 came the first settlement of what was ultimately the City of Pittsburgh. In the great migration of peoples into the West, it served as the natural gateway for travelers by boat or by wagon. Numerous colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians came to the Western Pennsylvania counties bordering these waterways and built there farm homes and churches. Others, later, joined the ever-rolling procession to the plains of the Mississippi basin and beyond.

Wherever Presbyterians went they carried a demand for education. Piety and learning were never separated; and the crowning glory of all education was the study of theology. Throughout this area were schools and academies in close association with the Presbyterian churches. Three of them; namely, Amity and Prosperity under Thaddeus Dodd, Upper Buffalo under Joseph Smith, and the Chartiers Church under John McMillan, gave instruction in theology to a number of young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Dodd held classes at Amity as early as 1781. There is a direct line of descent from these pioneer schools to the Western Theological Seminary.

During the first quarter of the nineteenth century, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware of the need of specialized, professional training for ministerial candidates beyond the college level and of the experience of life within a Christian community of fellow students. Princeton Theological Seminary was established in 1813, and some twelve years later came the Western Theological Seminary in 1825, in a city that faced the continually receding horizon of the West.

The first classes met in 1827 with two instructors and four students. In the one hundred and twenty-six years since that year, three thousand seven hundred and eight students have registered at the Seminary, and, of these, two thousand and ninety-seven have gone forth bearing degrees. The faculty of the Western Theological Seminary through the years has been composed of eminent churchmen and scholars: Luther Halsey, John W. Nevin, Melancthon W. Jacobus, Alexander A. Hodge, Benjamin B. Warfield, Matthew B. Riddle, David S. Schaff, James H. Snowden, and James A. Kelso. These men have bequeathed to the school a tone of high scholarship and humble devotion, which are the dominant elements in the Seminary life to this day.

The missionary interest has ever been strong. Elisha P. Swift, one of the first instructors, was the executive secretary of the original Western Foreign Missionary Society which later became the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The first missionaries to India, John C. Lowrie and William Reed, were members of the class of 1829.

The main function of the Western Theological Seminary has been the training of ministers for the pastorate, whether urban or rural. The abiding concern of both its faculty and the administrative officers has been directed toward the preparing of young men for this glorious task. Although a number of our candidates throughout a century and a quarter have taken up the more specialized ministry of foreign missionary or college teaching, the greatest number enter the pastorate.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by the President, Vice-President, and Dean. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The administrative officers, together with a representative of the Board of Trustees, are members of the Council on Theological Education of the Presbyterian Church. The Seminary is a member in good standing of the American Association of Theological Schools and is fully accredited by that body.

Although the Western Theological Seminary has represented the main stream of Presbyterian thought and has been free of extremes in both theology and practice, it has been warmly hospitable to students from all the major evangelical bodies.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, are located the offices of the Dean and Registrar.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china, and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required, from which are deducted all breakage costs.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall. All residents, except those living in apartments, are required to eat in the refectory. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

Marvin Social Hall, located on the ground floor in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for parties and other social events.

The Gymnasium, located in the north wing of the ground floor, has adequate facilities for basketball, volleyball, handball, and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is supplied for physical exercise, and a shower and locker room adjoin the gymnasium.

Lowrie Hall, next door to Memorial Hall, is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children, varying in size from suites of two rooms with kitchenette and bath to apartments with five rooms. Nominal rentals are charged and vary according to the size of the apartment. Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Three of the apartments have two bedrooms and four have one bedroom. Bedding, linens, silverware, china, and cooking utensils must be provided by each family. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required, from which are deducted all breakage costs.

In regard to apartments, thirty days' notice of change must be given by the Seminary and tenants. First-year applicants already married are given priority for apartments. Other applications are reviewed individually and assignments made by the Administration.

808 Ridge Avenue, the recent gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company to the Seminary, is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road, adjacent to Memorial Hall. This four-story brick structure houses dormitories, classrooms, and the offices of the president, vice-president, faculty, and business manager. A modern students' lounge provides a restful atmosphere for reading and relaxation.

Plans for the Future include completion of the quadrangle with new chapel, east wing, and landscaped court.

LIBRARY

The library of seventy thousand volumes is one of the glories of the Western Seminary. It began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by Alexander Campbell and has received notable additions from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields, and N. W. Conkling funds, and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete of its kind in this country, is available to students of English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library is housed in Swift Hall. It consists of a spacious reading room, a browsing room, the librarian's office, a study room for the faculty and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The library subscribes to over one hundred periodicals representing the main denominational divisions in America and offering a broad survey of theological thought both here and in Europe.

ADVANTAGES OF PITTSBURGH

The city of Pittsburgh, located where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality and every profession and skill. Consequently, students have an excellent opportunity to observe industrial and labor conditions.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Pennsylvania College for Women are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and various Carnegie free libraries, together with the great university and college libraries, offer their vast resources to all students. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, the various concert series, the choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music. Pittsburgh is the home of the International Exhibition of Contemporary Painting held each year at the galleries of the Carnegie Institute, where there are also displayed loan exhibitions of many other forms of art.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. Erected in 1939 at a cost of one and one-half million dollars, it furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations are represented in the Pittsburgh area and afford the students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in both its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the third largest presbytery in the Presbyterian Church. Within its bounds are one hundred and thirty-five churches with a total membership of eighty thousand two hundred. Of these, about twenty have more than a thousand members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

Once known as the "Smoky City," Pittsburgh is now attaining distinction as a clean city. More impressive than its Smoke-Control Program, however, is Pittsburgh's Point Park Program, its vast network of newly constructed parkways, a planned civic arena, a new airport which is the second largest in the country, and many other improvements to this historic city.

DEPARTMENT OF FIELD SERVICE

Western Seminary is fortunate in the fact that it is located in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world. The many churches of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia provide opportunities for students in city, suburban, and rural situations.

The Department of Field Service, under the supervision of the Director of Field Service, assists students in securing opportunities for service in churches in this area where they may gain experience in many practical aspects of the Christian ministry. Such service may be as student ministers, pastors' assistants, supply preachers, youth work and church school leaders, or social settlement workers. Financial remuneration is commensurate with the service rendered. The benefits derived by the student in practical experience and material rewards are important; but neither is the primary consideration. The basic criterion of field service effort is the value of the service the student renders to the church which he serves.

The Department endeavors to direct students to opportunities where their abilities may best be suited. However, no assurance may be given any student of a particular appointment, for the decision rests with the church or organization concerned.

Field work experiences and problems are integrated with classroom instruction and seminars, thus giving to each a richer educational value. The extent of the field service responsibilities a student is permitted to assume may be determined by his academic performance. A student whose academic average falls below a certain specified standard may be asked to discontinue his field activity or to reduce the number of courses carried.

Reports of their field work activities are submitted by the students to the Director of Field Service. Faculty counsel is given where necessary. Further opportunity for discussion of special problems is provided in courses under the Department of Pastoral Theology.

SENIOR WORSHIP SERVICE

Each member of the senior class is required to conduct a service of public worship, with sermon, attended by the faculty, student body, and friends. This is an essential part of the spiritual life of the Seminary and is to be conducted in a manner which preserves the best values and noblest traditions of worship. Conferences with the professors of homiletics and public worship and other professors follow each service.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

STUDENT PRESBYTERY

The student body of the Seminary is organized as a Student Presbytery in accordance with the Presbyterian system of government, and meets on the first Wednesday of each month. Its officers are the Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer. The Junior, Middler, and Senior classes are organized in a similar fashion. The standing committees are the Christian Life Committee, Athletic Committee, Social Committee, Social Education and Action Committee, Inter-Seminary Committee, and Student-Faculty Relations Committee. The professors are ex officio members of the Student Presbytery and of their assigned standing committees.

STUDENT DEVOTIONAL LIFE

Students who are not engaged in pulpit or church school responsibilities on Sunday are expected to relate themselves to one of the churches in the city and thus to be under pastoral care.

Regular morning chapel services are held each day, Tuesday through Friday, under the leadership of the members of the student body and the faculty. On one day of each week, the entire school gathers for a conference hour conducted by invited speakers who are leaders in fields of interest to the ministry.

In addition to these scheduled services, the devotional committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the corporate prayer life of the students. The committee supervises a brief period of devotions in the dining hall at the evening meal. One day of each school year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer; classes are omitted, and the entire day is devoted to prayer and meditation. Students are expected to attend all services.

THE CHOIR

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed at present of students, students' wives, and members of the staff. They meet for practice and sociability Wednesday night of each week and present occasional choral worship services for the student body as well as outside the Seminary.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A good gymnasium, equipped with lockers and shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. provides courtesy memberships, with the privilege of the swimming pool, to seminary students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Parties and teas are held throughout the year in Marvin Social Hall and provide many occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association contributes appreciably to the social life of the institution.

PRE-SEMINARY COLLEGE CURRICULUM

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS ENTRANCE PROCEDURES

Western Theological Seminary offers courses in theology to those preparing for the Christian ministry or related fields of service, and to those who desire a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith. Women are admitted as full-time or part-time students on the same basis as men. Members of the student body fall into several classifications: partial, auditors, special, graduate, and undergraduate.

Partial students are those who hold a college degree and wish to take a limited number of hours for credit, but are not necessarily preparing for a Christian vocation. These may enroll upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Auditors are those who are practicing, ordained clergymen without a college degree; or those who do hold a college degree but who do not wish to receive credit. These may be admitted upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, a letter from their ecclesiastical body, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Special students are those who wish to specialize in the work of a particular department, rather than take the full curriculum. Arrangements must be made with the head of the particular department. Special students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, college transcript, letters from the home pastor and college administration, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Partial, Auditing, and Special students may not register for post-graduate courses without permission of the Dean and the professor in charge.

Graduate students are those who hold college and seminary degrees, enrolled in a degree or non-degree program, either full time or part time. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, seminary transcript, letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Undergraduate students are those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See Requirements for Admission that follow.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

A Formal Application, to be found at the back of the catalogue, must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Seminary. This must be supported by the following credentials:

Application Fee

A check or money order for ten dollars must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. The application fee is not returnable if the application is withdrawn. It is refunded if the applicant is rejected.

Photograph

A small, recent photograph or snapshot must accompany the application. This will be retained in the applicant's file.

College Transcript

A record of the applicant's college work to date is required at the time the application is submitted. Upon completion of his college work, the applicant must submit a final transcript showing the date of graduation and the degree received. The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited college or university.

Letters of Recommendation

A letter must be submitted from the applicant's home pastor, certifying as to the applicant's character, abilities, and general aptitudes for the Christian ministry.

A letter must be submitted from the ecclesiastical body in authority over the applicant's church, certifying that the applicant has been approved by the body as a candidate for the gospel ministry. Applicants who have not been officially received under the care of their respective ecclesiastical authorities at the time of application must arrange for this letter to be submitted immediately after such formal action has been taken.

A letter must be submitted from the Dean of the college, certifying as to the applicant's capacities to pursue graduate study.

Personal Interview

A personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary is highly desirable. Where this is not feasible, a letter giving the applicant's educational, family, and religious background, as well as his views of and plans for the Christian ministry, is required.

Certificate of Health

Psychological Tests

In conformity with the recommendation of the American Association of Theological Schools, every undergraduate student is required to submit to a series of tests for aptitudes, personality, and intelligence, under the direction of Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor with the Department of Christian Education. Those who have not taken them previous to entering Seminary will do so in the course of the orientation program.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of work taken at the seminary and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or other administrative official.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

MATRICULATION

As he begins his seminary study, each student is expected to take the Matriculation Pledge, which has been subscribed to by all entering students since 1829, as follows:

"Deeply impressed with a sense of the need of improving in knowledge, prudence, and piety in my preparation for the gospel ministry, I solemnly promise, in reliance on divine grace, that I will faithfully and diligently attend to all the instructions of this Seminary, and that I will conscientiously and vigilantly observe all the rules and regulations specified in the Plan for its instruction and government, so far as the same relate to the students; and that I will obey all the lawful requisitions and readily yield to all the wholesome admonitions of the Professors and Directors of the Seminary while I shall continue as a member of it."

ACADEMIC STANDARDS

A student is on probation during the first semester of his enrollment. It is not permissible for a student to take courses at another institution during the Seminary year, except by special consent of the Faculty.

A student must maintain a C average (1 quality point) in order to carry a full schedule of courses. A student falling below this minimum in any one semester will be required to carry a reduced schedule in the ensuing semester.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	90% to 100%	3	quality points
B	80% to 89%	2	“ “
C	70% to 79%	1	“ “
D	60% to 69%	0	“ “
F	Failure	-1	“ “
I	Incomplete	0	“ “

Examinations are given in most courses throughout the period of the semester, with final examinations being given before the semester's close. A student who fails an examination is permitted to take a re-examination. A second failure may result in the loss of the student's class standing or in his being classified as a partial student. A fee will be charged for an examination given at a later date when a student's absence from the regular examination was unexcused.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE

B. D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 100 semester hours' work.
2. Presentation of a thesis written in the student's major field. (Thesis subjects must be approved by December 1 of the academic year in which the degree is to be conferred, by the head of the department in which the thesis is to be written. The thesis, satisfactorily completed, must be in the hands of the professor by April 1 of that year.)
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.

GRADUATE STUDIES

MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must be in residence at this seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours per week of regular curriculum work. Distribution of courses between the major and minor subjects will be determined in each instance by the professor in whose department the thesis is to be written, and the Dean. Where possible, two thirds of the total hours must be devoted to the department of the major subject and the remainder to the minor.
3. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by the major professor.
4. The candidate, at the close of the year, must pass rigid examinations, both oral and written, in the major and minor fields of study.

Note: No candidate may receive the Bachelor of Divinity degree and the Master of Theology degree at the same Commencement.

DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must pass satisfactorily a preliminary qualifying examination in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; theology, including philosophy and ethics; Christian education (this may be optional, depending upon the student's preparation in the field); and practical theology, including homiletics. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Preliminary qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.

3. The candidate must select one field of major study and, with the advice of his major professor, submit to the committee on graduate studies for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. He must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the committee on graduate studies.
4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations in the major and minor fields, followed by oral examinations conducted by the committee on graduate studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.
5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages. He must submit to examinations in these languages and pass them satisfactorily before he commences research for his dissertation.
6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation on a piece of original investigation or a project on parish or institutional activities of the church.
7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities and who wish to transfer to this seminary must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the committee on curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the committee on graduate studies of the faculty.

MASTER OF ARTS IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The churches are offering more opportunities for women professionally trained to serve as directors of Christian education and pastors' assistants than there are persons qualified to accept them. Western Seminary, in co-operation with the University of Pittsburgh, is now helping to meet this need. College graduates can secure the degree of Master of Arts, with a major in religious education, from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

ADVANCED DEGREES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The postgraduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to students of the Seminary. The requirements for the Master of Arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh are twenty-four course credits and six thesis credits; for the Doctor of Philosophy degree, seventy-two course credits and six thesis credits. These are semester credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the graduate faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the seminary who desire to secure credits at the University:

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary who desire to take the Master of Arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of religious education may transfer as many as fourteen semester credits from the seminary as advanced standing toward these degrees. The remaining ten course credits and six thesis credits required for the Master of Arts degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. These ten course credits need not be taken in religious education. Certain courses in education, sociology, history, philosophy, psychology, and other fields are open to theological students. Candidates for the degree of Master of Education with emphasis in religious education come under the same ruling.

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary may be allowed a maximum of thirty credits as advanced standing toward the Doctor of Philosophy or the Doctor of Education degree in religious education. As many as six additional credits toward a doctor's degree may be granted for courses taken beyond the three-year theological course.

A regular summer session or a semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh or elsewhere unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Authorization in writing must be secured by the student from the Dean of the Seminary.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSES OF STUDY

DR. FREEDMAN, DR. SWAIM

1a-1b. English Bible. This course is designed to give a familiarity and understanding of the Scriptures in English. The King James and Revised Standard Versions are used. Emphasis is placed upon a knowledge of the contents of the Bible as a necessary prerequisite to further study. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

Old Testament

DR. FREEDMAN AND STAFF

2. Old Testament World. A general survey course dealing with the salient points of Old Testament theology, history, and introduction. Salvation history in the setting of the civilization of the Ancient Near East is the central theme. There is extensive reading in the ancient sources and modern scholarly works, in addition to the Bible. Three hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required.

3-4. Hebrew Grammar-Exegesis. The study of elementary Hebrew grammar and vocabulary, with emphasis on the study of theological terms and conceptions. Selected passages from the Old Testament are read. In the second semester, sound principles and methods of Hebrew exegesis are stressed. This includes textual criticism, lexicographical and syntactical analysis, and comparative study of the versions. Four hours weekly throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

5. Literature of the Old Testament. This course deals with the forms of Old Testament literature, the pre-literary history and the literary pre-history of the Old Testament books. Included is the literary analysis of the different books, the formation of the Canon, and the transmission of the text. The problem of revelation and inspiration is also considered. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

6. Old Testament Prophets. This course deals with the prophetic movement in the framework of Israelite religion and history. The message of each prophet is studied exegetically and critically. Stress is laid upon the contribution of the prophets and their significance for today. The text is the Bible. Also used are commentaries and reference works. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required.

11. Seminar in Israelite Culture. Investigation of special problems in the social and cultural history of Israel. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

12. Old Testament Theology. God's action in history and Israel's response in faith are the main themes of this course. Key theological terms are analyzed: covenant, election, salvation, etc. Recent trends in this field are evaluated through a survey of current literature. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

13. The Intertestamental Period. A study of the history and literature of Judaism in the period between the Old and New Testaments. The Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha are treated along with the sectarian scrolls dating from the Maccabean age. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

19. Biblical Apocalyptic. A careful study of the Apocalyptic elements in the Old Testament, with special reference to the Book of Daniel.

After a brief investigation of the main features of the extra-canonical apocalypses, the Book of Revelation is examined in detail. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

21. Advanced Exegesis of the Old Testament. A continuation of Course No. 4. Special attention is given to the exegesis and analysis of difficult passages in the Old Testament. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

22. Advanced Reading in Hebrew. Rapid reading and exegesis. All classes. Elective. Prerequisite, Course No. 3.

23. The Book of Isaiah. A critical comparison of the Massoretic text with the Dead Sea Scrolls. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

31. Biblical Aramaic. Grammar and a study of Daniel 2:4b-7:28; Ezra 4:8-6:18; 7:12-26; Jeremiah 10:11. Reading of selected Aramaic Papyri from Elephantine. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

32. Elements of Arabic. A beginner's course in Arabic grammar is offered to students interested in advanced Semitic studies or those looking toward mission work in lands where a thorough knowledge of Arabic is essential. Elective.

33. Elements of Canaanite Cuneiform. A beginner's course in Ugaritic. Elective.

34. Elements of Accadian. A beginner's course in Assyro-Babylonian. Elective.

35. Elements of North West Semitic. Decipherment, translation, and analysis of early Phoenician, Moabite, Hebrew, and Aramaic inscriptions, and investigation of their bearing on Old Testament studies. Elective.

New Testament

DR. SWAIM, DR. MCCLOY, AND STAFF

A knowledge of New Testament Greek is required for graduation. Students who have not had college Greek take Course No. 101; others take Course No. 102.

101. Greek Grammar. This course is designed for students who have had no previous preparation in Greek. The aim is to prepare them to read the Greek new Testament. Machen's New Testament Greek for Beginners is the text. The second semester continues grammatical and lexical study. Reading and exegesis of selected New Testament passages commenced as soon as possible. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

102. Advanced Reading in Greek. This course is designed for students who have had beginning Greek in college. Selected passages from the New Testament are read, with particular attention to syntax, style, and the art of translating. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Taken as an alternate to Course No. 101. Required.

112. New Testament Exegesis. Exegesis of portions of the Pauline letters chosen to familiarize the student with details of the apostle's thought and experience. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required.

121. New Testament Introduction and History. The historical and political background, both Jewish and pagan; the relation of the New Testament to the Old; the Oriental conception of authorship; Palestinian geography and customs as illuminating narrative and discourse; the origin, purpose, and character of each of the twenty-seven books that make up the New Testament. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required.

122. The Gospels. An examination of critical theories regarding their origin; their transmission to us through manuscript and translation; the Synoptic outline and the Johannine interpretation of the life of Christ; sayings and deeds of Jesus as understood in the light of their setting. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required.

123. New Testament Theology. A study of the teachings of the New Testament regarding God's redeeming grace, made known in Christ, and man's response in faith, hope, and love. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required.

131. The New Testament and the Work of the Pastor. A study of the Gospels and Epistles for the guidance and practical help they give the minister in understanding the pastoral office, in his own personal life, in his leadership of public worship, in his dealings with congregations and official boards, in his ministry to individuals, in the cure of souls, and in his responsibilities as churchman and citizen. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

132. Selected Problems of New Testament Study. A seminar course for qualified students desiring to do advanced work in this field.

133. The Gospel and Society. A study of "God's design" as disclosed in "the pattern shown upon the mountain," and "man's disorder" as reflected in contemporary conditions; New Testament resources for the ministry of reconciliation in the present day. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

134. The Minister and His New Testament. The New Testament and the minister himself—the nature of his office, the management of his time, his responsibilities as churchman and citizen; methods of studying the New Testament and of presenting it to people; the use of the New Testament in public worship and its relation to the life of the congregation. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

135. The New Testament and the Cure of Souls. Starting from the Johannine assertion that Jesus knew "what was in human nature," this course considers how Jesus and the Apostles dealt with individuals; New Testament techniques that help the pastor now in ministering to persons. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

Ecclesiastical History and History of Doctrine

201. General Church History. The period of the early Church, with an introduction to the Medieval Era. Three hours weekly, throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

202. General Church History. The Medieval Era, the Reformation, and the Modern Era with introduction to American Church History. Three hours weekly, throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

203. Ecumenics. An intensive study of the history, problems, and factors related to or involved in the more modern efforts to attain greater visible unity in the Christian Church. Local and world-wide ecumenical movements will be examined and appraised. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Open to post-graduates and qualified pastors.

211. The Expansion of Christianity. The history of Christianity's extension with particular reference to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This course will include a brief survey of the more significant movements within modern Christianity causing the retreat or the advance of the Church of Christ. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

212. American Church History. This study opens with a survey of European Church History with reference to the beginnings of the Church in the Americas. While consideration is given to the rise and progress of Christianity in both the Americas, particular attention will be paid the history of the churches within the United States. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

213. Survey of Modern Tendencies. This course consists of an historical critical examination and appraisal of the major tendencies in Christendom since about 1750. Designed for advanced students and for qualified pastors who desire to make a thorough-going survey under guidance. Two hours, throughout the year. Elective.

214. Christian Biography. A lecture, research course providing for the student the inspiration and information always desired but for which time has never been given. Consideration will be especially given to the key personalities of all the eras. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

215. History of the Reformed Churches Holding the Presbyterian System. A special research course with a written thesis. From time to time, those electing this course will meet in conference with Professor Slosser for discussion, assigned readings, and reports. There will be no regular meetings of the class. The thesis must be designed to show a mastery of the subject. Elective. Open to all students. Consult Dr. Slosser.

216. Special Research Theses. Senior and post-graduate students may, by a special arrangement with the professor, undertake to write a thesis or monograph upon some subject of Church History which has not yet been made a matter of easily available historical record. This would include the history of a presbytery, synod, conference, diocese, or of the church life of a particular section. The amount of credit given will depend upon the nature of the task undertaken and completed satisfactorily. Open to seniors and post-graduates, whether resident or non-resident. Elective. Consult Dr. Slosser.

217. Philosophies of History. An intensive lecture and textbook course in which will be considered the various philosophies of history as they have appeared in history. Special attention will be given to those philosophies that are predominantly materialistic, economical, geographical, psychological, dispensational, and theological. Such authors as Augustine, Hegel, Marx, Spengler, Sorokin, Berdyaev, du Nouy, A. J. Toynbee, together with Biblical writers will be considered. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

218. History of Christian Education. A lecture and textbook study of the methods and principles of religious education in Biblical times and in the centuries of the Christian era. This course is designed to furnish a background and foundation for the modern programs of religious education in Church Schools and in Week-Day Religious Schools, as well as in all Christian educational institutions. Two hours weekly, one semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

219. Seminar in Church Unity. A seminar in this field will vary as to the approach in accordance with the particular wishes of the students enrolled, or the most pressing demands in the field of church unity. Such approaches, for example, as factors other than theological which tend to divisions and which, if removed, would accomplish greater visible unity, is one field for special investigation. Other fields such as the varying doctrines of the church, the varying theories as to scripture usage, and differences as to the more efficient forms of church government, may be made subjects for special investigation. Two hours weekly, one semester. Elective.

220. Eschatology in History. This course consists in an examination of the doctrines relative to future events as found in the Bible and in various periods and with various church denominations in history. Millennialism will receive special attention. A textbook and lecture course. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

221. Christian Literature. A reading course with weekly two-hour lectures on great Christian writings, early church and patristic, medieval, and modern national literatures. In addition to the reading, all of which may be by English translation, written criticisms will be required. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. McCloy.

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to eight hundred dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 85 per cent. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for the 1953-54 assignment is Romans 1-3; and for 1954-55 it is I Corinthians 7.

4. In September 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for the 1953-54 assignment is Isaiah 9:1-6; and for 1954-55 it is Zechariah 9:9-13.

5. In February 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shady-side Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. On November 17, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved and accepted the creation of a scholarship fund by Seminary President Clifford E. Barbour as a memorial to his mother, to be known as "The Jennie Rigg Barbour Memorial Prize." This prize, paying four hundred dollars annually, is to be assigned to that member of the graduating class who has taken his full course of instruction in this institution and who has achieved the second highest academic rank of his class, if in the judgment of the faculty he is worthy in all other respects also. It is hoped that the student will use this income for further study either within an academic institution or by the enlargement of his own library.

8. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester. Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Dean by not later than the first week of classes their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination. The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

Latin—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

Classical Greek—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

German—Translation of German into English and English into German

French—Translation of French into English and English into French

Philosophy—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

History—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A.D. 476; (c) Medieval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

Other Subjects on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

9. In May 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

10. In July 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:"

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world, additional endowments are imperative.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

The Elmer H. and Carrie A. Douglass Memorial Scholarship Fund is the gift, by Dr. DeVerne Abbott and Mr. Fred Abbott, of Columbus, Ohio, of funds left for that purpose by the Reverend Elmer H. Douglass and Carrie A. Douglass, to assist students in preparation for missionary or regular pastoral work.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

At the point where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio, the first settlement of what was ultimately the City of Pittsburgh arose soon after 1758. In the great migration of peoples to the West, it served as the natural gateway for travelers by boat or by wagon. Numerous colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians came to the Western Pennsylvania counties bordering these waterways and established farm homes and churches. Others, later, joined the ever-rolling procession to the plains of the Mississippi and beyond.

Wherever Presbyterians went they carried a demand for education. Piety and learning were never separated; and the crowning glory of all education was the study of theology. Throughout this area schools and academies were in close association with the Presbyterian churches. Three of them, namely, Amity and Prosperity under Thaddeus Dodd, Upper Buffalo under Joseph Smith, and the Chartiers Church under John McMillan, gave instruction in theology to a number of young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Dodd held classes at Amity as early as 1781. There is a direct line of descent from these pioneer schools to the Western Theological Seminary.

During the first quarter of the nineteenth century, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware of the need of specialized, professional training for ministerial candidates beyond the college level, and, further, of the value of such training within a Christian community of fellow students. Princeton Theological Seminary was established in 1813, and some twelve years later the General Assembly founded the Western Theological Seminary in a region that faced the continually receding horizon of the West.

The first classes met in 1827 with two instructors and four students. In the one hundred and twenty-seven years since then, three thousand seven hundred and fifty-one students have registered at the Seminary, and, of these, two thousand one hundred and forty-eight have gone forth as graduates. The faculty of the Western Theological Seminary through the years has been composed of eminent churchmen and scholars: Luther Halsey, John W. Nevin, Melancthon W. Jacobus, Alexander A. Hodge, Benjamin B. Warfield, Matthew B. Riddle, David S. Schaff, James H. Snowden, and James A. Kelso. These men have bequeathed to the school a tone of high scholarship and humble devotion which are the dominant elements in the Seminary life to this day.

The missionary interest has ever been strong. Elisha P. Swift, one of the first instructors, was the executive secretary of the original Western Foreign Missionary Society which later became the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The first missionaries to India, John C. Lowrie and William Reed, were members of the class of 1829.

The main function of the Western Theological Seminary has been the training of ministers for the pastorate, whether urban or rural. The abiding concern of both its faculty and the administrative officers has been the preparing of young men for this glorious task. Although a number of our candidates throughout a century and a quarter have taken up the more specialized ministry of foreign missionary or college teaching, the greatest number enter the pastorate.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by the President, Vice-President, and Dean. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The administrative officers, together with a representative of the Board of Trustees, are members of the Council on Theological Education of the Presbyterian Church. The Seminary is a member in good standing of the American Association of Theological Schools and is fully accredited by that body.

Although the Western Theological Seminary has represented the main stream of Presbyterian thought and has been free of extremes in both theology and practice, it has been warmly hospitable to students from all the major evangelical bodies.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, are located the offices of the Dean.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required from which are deducted all breakage costs.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall where resident students, except those living in apartments, are required to take their meals. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

A suitable Coffee Shop is available for the convenience of the students.

Marvin Social Hall, located in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for informal conferences and social gatherings.

The Gymnasium may be used for basketball, volley ball and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is provided by the athletic committee of the student Presbytery. Use of the Gymnasium by groups other than students is under the supervision of the Administrative officers.

Lowrie Hall is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children. Rentals vary according to the size of the apartment (see page 25). Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be provided by each family. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required from which are deducted all breakage costs.

808 Ridge Avenue is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road. This four-story structure, the recent gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company, contains the offices of the President, Vice-President, members of the Faculty, Business Manager, two large lecture halls and the student lounge. On the third floor are nine single rooms for students and the apartment of the Instructor-in-Residence, The Rev. William A. Nicholson, and Mrs. Nicholson.

Plans for the Future include completion of the quadrangle with new chapel, east wing and landscaped court.

LIBRARY

The library of seventy thousand volumes is one of the glories of the Western Seminary. It began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by Alexander Campbell and has received notable additions from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields, and N. W. Conkling funds, and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete of its kind in this country, is available to students of English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library is housed in Swift Hall. It consists of a spacious reading room, a browsing room, the librarian's office, a study room for the faculty and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The library subscribes to over one hundred periodicals representing the main denominational divisions in America and offering a broad survey of theological thought both here and in Europe.

ADVANTAGES OF PITTSBURGH

The city of Pittsburgh, located where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality and every profession and skill. Consequently, students have an excellent opportunity to observe industrial and labor conditions.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Pennsylvania College for Women are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and various Carnegie free libraries, together with the great university and college libraries, offer their vast resources to all students. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, the various concert series, the choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. Erected in 1939 at a cost of one and one-half million dollars, it furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations are represented in the Pittsburgh area and afford the students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in both its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the third largest presbytery in the Presbyterian Church. Within its bounds are one hundred and thirty-five churches with a total membership of eighty thousand two hundred. Of these, about twenty have more than a thousand members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

Once known as the "Smoky City," Pittsburgh is now attaining distinction as a clean city. More impressive than its Smoke-Control Program, however, is Pittsburgh's Point Park Program, its vast network of newly constructed parkways, a planned civic arena, a new airport which is the second largest in the country, and many other improvements to this historic city.

DEPARTMENT OF FIELD WORK

Western Seminary is fortunate in that it is located in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world. The many churches of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia provide opportunities for students in city, suburban, and rural situations

The Department of Field Work, under the supervision of the Director of Field Work, assists students in securing opportunities for service in churches in this area where they may gain experience in many practical aspects of the Christian ministry. Such service may be as student ministers, pastors' assistants, supply preachers, youth work and church school leaders, or social settlement workers. Financial remuneration is commensurate with the service rendered. The benefits derived by the student in practical experience and material rewards are important; but neither is the primary consideration. The basic criterion of field service effort is the value of the service the student renders to the church which he serves.

The Department endeavors to direct students to opportunities where their abilities may best be suited. However, no assurance of employment can be given to any student. The decision rests with the church or organization concerned.

Field work experiences and problems are integrated with classroom instruction. The extent of field service any student may assume is determined by his academic accomplishment. A student whose grade average drops must discontinue his field work or reduce his Seminary studies.

Reports of field work are submitted by the students to the Director of Field Work. Faculty counsel is given where necessary. Discussion of various problems is provided in the courses in Pastoral Theology.

SENIOR WORSHIP SERVICE

Each candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree in his Senior year is required to conduct a service of public worship, with sermon, attended by the faculty, student body, and friends. This is an essential part of the spiritual life of the Seminary and is to be conducted in a manner which preserves the best values and noblest traditions of worship. Conferences with the faculty precede and follow each service.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

STUDENT PRESBYTERY

The students of the Seminary are organized as a Student Presbytery in accordance with the Presbyterian system of government. Its officers are: Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer. The standing committees are: Faith and Life, Athletic, Social Education and Action, Social, Inter-Seminary, Student-Faculty Relations, Conference. The professors are ex officio members of the Student Presbytery.

STUDENT DEVOTIONAL LIFE

Students who are not engaged in supply preaching are expected to relate themselves to one of the churches of the community and to attend public worship.

Regular morning chapel services are held each day, Tuesday through Friday, under the leadership of the faculty and the Middler and Senior students. The entire school gathers weekly for a conference conducted by invited speakers who are leaders in fields of interest to the ministry. A list of the speakers and their subjects is given on Page 41.

In addition to these scheduled services, the devotional committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the corporate prayer life of the students. The committee supervises a brief period of devotions in the dining hall at the evening meal. One day of each school year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer; classes are omitted, and the entire day is devoted to prayer and meditation. Students are expected to attend all services.

THE CHOIR

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed of students, students' wives, and members of the staff, its make-up depending on the number and the abilities of those in attendance at the Seminary in any given year. Programs are given in the chapel and in the churches of the district at various times.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A good gymnasium, equipped with shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. provides courtesy memberships with the privilege of the swimming pool, to Seminary students. Tennis courts in the park facing the Seminary and the athletic field of the Allegheny High School are available to the students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Social gatherings are held throughout the year in Marvin Social Hall and the Student Lounge at 808 Ridge Avenue. These provide occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association holds regular meetings under the sponsorship of faculty wives and contributes appreciably to the social life of the Seminary.

PRE-SEMINARY COLLEGE CURRICULUM

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS

ENTRANCE PROCEDURES

Western Theological Seminary offers courses in theology to those preparing for the Christian ministry or related fields of service, and to those who desire a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith. Women are admitted as full-time or part-time students on the same basis as men. Members of the student body fall into several classifications: partial, auditors, special, graduate, and undergraduate.

Partial students are those who hold a college degree and wish to take a limited number of hours for credit, but are not necessarily preparing for a Christian vocation. These may enroll upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Auditors are those who are practicing, ordained clergymen without a college degree; or those who do hold a college degree but who do not wish to receive credit. These may be admitted upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, a letter from their ecclesiastical body, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Special students are those who wish to specialize in the work of a particular department, rather than take the full curriculum. Arrangements must be made with the head of the particular department. Special students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, college transcript, letters from the home pastor and college administration, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Partial, Auditing, and Special students may not register for post-graduate courses without permission of the Dean and the professor in charge.

Graduate students are those who hold college and seminary degrees, enrolled in a degree or non-degree program, either full time or part time. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, seminary transcript, letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Undergraduate students are those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See Requirements for Admission that follow.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

A Formal Application, to be found at the back of the catalogue, must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Seminary. This must be supported by the following credentials:

Application Fee

A check or money order for ten dollars must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. The application fee is not returnable if the application is withdrawn. It is refunded if the applicant is rejected.

Photograph

A small, recent photograph or snapshot must accompany the application. This will be retained in the applicant's file.

College Transcript

A record of the applicant's college work to date is required at the time the application is submitted. Upon completion of his college work, the applicant must submit a final transcript showing the date of graduation and the degree received. The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited college or university.

Letters of Recommendation

A letter must be submitted from the applicant's home pastor, certifying as to the applicant's character, abilities, and general aptitudes for the Christian ministry.

A letter must be submitted from the ecclesiastical body in authority over the applicant's church, certifying that the applicant has been approved by the body as a candidate for the gospel ministry. Applicants who have not been officially received under the care of their respective ecclesiastical authorities at the time of application must arrange for this letter to be submitted immediately after such formal action has been taken.

A letter must be submitted from the Dean of the college, certifying as to the applicant's capacities to pursue graduate study.

Personal Interview

A personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary is highly desirable. Where this is not possible, a letter giving the applicant's educational, family, and religious background, as well as his views of and plans for the Christian ministry, is required.

Certificate of Health

Psychological Tests

In conformity with the recommendation of the American Association of Theological Schools, every undergraduate student is required to submit to a series of tests for aptitudes, personality, and intelligence, under the direction of Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor with the Department of Christian Education. Those who have not taken them previous to entering Seminary will do so in the course of the orientation program.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of work taken at the seminary and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or other administrative official.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

MATRICULATION

As he begins his seminary study, each student is expected to take the Matriculation Pledge, which has been subscribed to by all entering students since 1829, as follows:

"Deeply impressed with a sense of the need of improving in knowledge, prudence, and piety in my preparation for the gospel ministry, I solemnly promise, in reliance on divine grace, that I will faithfully and diligently attend to all the instructions of this Seminary, and that I will conscientiously and vigilantly observe all the rules and regulations specified in the Plan for its instruction and government, so far as the same relate to the students; and that I will obey all the lawful requisitions and readily yield to all the wholesome admonitions of the Professors and Directors of the Seminary while I shall continue as a member of it."

ACADEMIC STANDARDS

A student is on probation during the first semester of his enrollment. It is not permissible for a student to take courses at another institution during the Seminary year, except by special consent of the Faculty.

A student must maintain a C average (1 quality point) in order to carry a full schedule of courses. A student falling below this minimum in any one semester will be required to carry a reduced schedule in the ensuing semester.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	90% to 100%	3	quality points
B	80% to 89%	2	"	"
C	70% to 79%	1	"	"
D	60% to 69%	0	"	"
F	Failure	-1	"	"
I	Incomplete	-1	"	" (until work is completed.)

Examinations are given in most courses throughout the period of the semester, with final examinations being given before the semester's close. A student who fails an examination is permitted to take a re-examination. A second failure may result in the loss of the student's class standing or in his being classified as a partial student. A fee will be charged for an examination given at a later date when a student's absence from the regular examination was unexcused.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE B. D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 100 semester hours' work.
2. Presentation of a thesis written in the student's major field. (Thesis subjects must be approved by December 1 of the academic year in which the degree is to be conferred, by the head of the department in which the thesis is to be written. The thesis, satisfactorily completed, must be in the hands of the professor by April 9.)
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.
4. Satisfactory conducting of a complete service of worship in the Seminary chapel with students and faculty in attendance.

Students transferring from other theological seminaries must be in residence at Western Seminary for a minimum of one full academic year in order to become a candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree.

GRADUATE STUDIES

MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must be in residence at this seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours per week of regular curriculum work. Distribution of courses between the major and minor subjects will be determined in each instance by the professor in whose department the thesis is to be written, and the Dean. Where possible, two thirds of the total hours must be devoted to the department of the major subject and the remainder to the minor.
3. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by the major professor.
4. The candidate, at the close of the year, must pass rigid examinations, both oral and written, in the major and minor fields of study.

Note: No candidate may receive the Bachelor of Divinity degree and the Master of Theology degree at the same Commencement.

DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must pass satisfactorily a preliminary qualifying examination in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; theology, including philosophy and ethics; Christian education (this may be optional, depending upon the student's preparation in the field); and practical theology, including homiletics. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Preliminary qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.

3. The candidate must select one field of major study and, with the advice of his major professor, submit to the committee on graduate studies for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. He must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the committee on graduate studies.
4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations in the major and minor fields, followed by oral examinations conducted by the committee on graduate studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.
5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages other than his native tongue. He must submit to examinations in these languages and pass them satisfactorily before he commences research for his dissertation.
6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation on a piece of original investigation or a project on parish or institutional activities of the church.
7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities and who wish to transfer to this seminary must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the committee on curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the committee on graduate studies of the faculty.

MASTER OF ARTS IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The churches are offering more opportunities for women professionally trained to serve as directors of Christian education and pastors' assistants than there are qualified persons to accept them. Western Theological Seminary, in cooperation with the University of Pittsburgh, is now helping to meet this need. College graduates can secure the Master of Education or the Master of Arts degree, with a major in religious education, from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

ADVANCED DEGREES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The postgraduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to students of the Seminary. The requirements for the Master's degree at the University of Pittsburgh are thirty semester credits and for the Doctor's degree ninety credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the graduate faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the seminary who desire to secure credits at the University:

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary who desire to take the Master of Arts degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of religious education may transfer as many as fourteen semester credits from the seminary as advanced standing toward these degrees.* The remaining ten course credits and six thesis credits required for the Master of Arts degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. These ten course credits need not be taken in religious education. Certain courses in education, sociology, history, philosophy, psychology, and other fields are open to theological students. Candidates for the degree of Master of Education with emphasis in religious education come under the same ruling.

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary may be allowed a maximum of thirty credits as advanced standing toward the Doctor of Philosophy or the Doctor of Education degree in religious education. As many as six additional credits toward a doctor's degree may be granted for courses taken beyond the three-year theological course.

A regular summer session or a semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh or elsewhere unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Authorization in writing must be secured by the student from the Dean of the Seminary.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before registering for a new semester and before graduation or the release of official transcripts.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Financial assistance is available from the following sources:

1. Presbyterian students should apply for aid, through their Presbyteries, to the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. The amounts thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.
2. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students may receive aid. Prospective students desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the president. The distribution is made in three installments: October 1, December 1, and March 1.
3. Small amounts may be borrowed from the Seminary at a low rate of interest, for emergency needs.
4. When necessary, arrangements for a payment plan to cover a semester's expenses may be made at the Business Office.

THE CURRICULUM

The Seminary year is divided into two semesters. The curriculum is designed to provide courses for a comprehensive theological education.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSES OF STUDY

DR. FREEDMAN, DR. HILLS, MR. WALTHER

1a-1b. English Bible. This course is designed to give a familiarity and understanding of the Scriptures in English. The King James and Revised Standard Versions are used. Emphasis is placed upon a knowledge of the contents of the Bible as a necessary prerequisite to further study. In the second semester, several sessions will be given to the history of the English Bible. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

Old Testament

DR. FREEDMAN, DR. HILLS

2. Old Testament World. A general survey course dealing with the salient points of Old Testament theology, history, and introduction. Salvation history in the setting of the civilization of the Ancient Near East is the central theme. There is extensive reading in the ancient sources and modern scholarly works, in addition to the Bible. Three hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required.

3-4. Hebrew Grammar-Exegesis. Elementary Hebrew grammar and vocabulary, with emphasis on the study of theological terms and conceptions. Selected passages from the Old Testament are read. In the second semester, sound principles and methods of Hebrew exegesis are stressed. This includes textual criticism, lexicographical and syntactical analysis, and comparative study of the versions. Four hours weekly throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

5. Literature of the Old Testament. This course deals with the forms of Old Testament literature, oral tradition and literary history of the Old Testament books. Included is the critical analysis of the different books, the formation of the Canon, and the transmission of the text. The problem of revelation and inspiration is also considered. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

6. Old Testament Prophets. This course deals with the prophetic movement in the framework of Israelite religion and history. The message of each prophet is studied exegetically and critically. Stress is laid upon the contribution of the prophets and their significance for today. The text is the Bible. Also used are commentaries and reference works. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required.

11. Seminar in Israelite Culture. Investigation of special problems in the social and cultural history of Israel. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

12. Old Testament Theology. God's action in history and Israel's response in faith are the main themes of this course. Key theological terms are analyzed: covenant, election, salvation, etc. Recent trends in this field are evaluated through a survey of current literature. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

13. The Intertestamental Period. A study of the history and literature of Judaism in the period between the Old and New Testaments. The Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha are treated along with the sectarian scrolls dating from the Maccabean age. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

19. Biblical Apocalyptic. A careful study of the Apocalyptic elements in the Old Testament, with special reference to the Book of Daniel. After a brief investigation of the main features of the extra-canonical apocalypses, the Book of Revelation is examined in detail. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

21. Advanced Exegesis of the Old Testament. A continuation of Course No. 4. Special attention is given to the exegesis and analysis of difficult passages in the Old Testament. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

22. Advanced Reading in Hebrew. Rapid reading and exegesis. All classes. Elective. Prerequisite, Course No. 3.

23. The Book of Isaiah. A critical comparison of the Massoretic text with the Dead Sea Scrolls. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

24. Reading in the Qumran (Dead Sea) Scrolls). Selected passages from the Essene documents dating from the last pre-Christian centuries. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

31. Biblical Aramaic. Grammar and a study of Daniel 2:4b-7:28; Ezra 4:8-6, 18; 7:12-26; Jeremiah 10:11. Reading of selected Aramaic papyri from Elephantine. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

32. Elements of Arabic. A beginner's course in Arabic grammar is offered to students interested in advanced Semitic studies or those looking toward mission work in lands where a thorough knowledge of Arabic is essential. Elective.

33. Elements of Canaanite Cuneiform. A beginner's course in Ugaritic. Elective.

34. Elements of Accadian. A beginner's course in Assyro-Babylonian. Elective.

35. Elements of North West Semitic. Decipherment, translation, and analysis of early Phoenician, Moabite, Hebrew, and Aramaic inscriptions, and investigation of their bearing on Old Testament studies. Elective.

40. Judaism and Islam. Besides Christianity, these are the other great monotheistic religions of the Book. This course deals with the history and tenets of Judaism and Islam, with special attention to their relationship with each other and Christianity, and their significance for the life and thought of the Church today. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

New Testament

MR. WALTHER, MR. NICHOLSON, DR. MCCLOY, DR. REID

A knowledge of New Testament Greek is required for graduation. Students who have not had college Greek take Course No. 101; others take Course No. 102.

101. Greek Grammar. This course is designed for students who have had no previous preparation in Greek. The aim is to prepare them to read the Greek New Testament. Machen's New Testament Greek for Beginners is the text. The second semester continues grammatical and lexical study. Reading and exegesis of selected New Testament passages commenced as soon as possible. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

102. Advanced Reading in Greek. This course is designed for students who have had Greek in college. Passages from the New Testament and from Wikgren's Hellenistic Greek Texts are read after a rapid review of Nunn's Short Syntax of New Testament Greek. Facility in the art of translating as a prerequisite to exegesis is the goal. Outside readings are assigned to students with adequate background. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. (Alternate to Course No. 101.) Required.

112. New Testament Exegesis. Introduction to method of exegesis with examples. Exegesis of Paul's letter to the Galatians with the double purpose of developing skill in exegesis and of becoming familiar with included phases of Paul's thought and experience. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required.

121. New Testament Introduction and History. The historical and religious background of the New Testament followed by a literary and critical study of each New Testament book. The aim is to give a constructive foundation for all further New Testament study. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required.

122. The Gospels. The Synoptic Problem is studied using the Huck-Lietzmann Synopsis. Various schools of Gospel interpretation are studied, and the positive contributions of each are assessed. The life of Jesus Christ according to the Synoptic outline and the Johannine interpretation of the life of Jesus Christ are examined. The Greek text is freely used, and some attention is given to textual problems and their solution. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required.

123. New Testament Theology. A study of the teachings of the New Testament regarding God's redeeming grace, made known in Christ, and man's response in faith, hope, and love. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required.

132. Selected Problems of New Testament Study. An examination of current New Testament problems with attention to the literature of the field. Lectures, research, and discussion, designed for qualified students desiring to do advanced work in the New Testament. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

136. Sermon Ideas and Illustrations in the Greek New Testament. The purpose of this course is to discover the significance of Greek tenses, vivid phrases, picturesque nouns, verbs and prepositions as ideas and illustrations for sermons. The emphasis is upon preaching values in the Greek Testament and the course is designed to give to the students a method and a desire to continue such study throughout their preaching ministry. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective. Dr. Reid.

202. General Church History. The Medieval Era, the Reformation, and the Modern Era with introduction to American Church History. Two hours weekly, throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

203. Ecumenics. An intensive study of the history, problems, and factors related to or involved in the more modern efforts to attain greater visible unity in the Christian Church. Local and world-wide ecumenical movements will be examined and appraised. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Open to post-graduates and qualified pastors.

211. The Expansion of Christianity. The history of Christianity's extension with particular reference to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This course will include a brief survey of the more significant movements within modern Christianity causing the retreat or the advance of the Church of Christ. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

212. American Church History. This study opens with a survey of European Church History with reference to the beginnings of the Church in the Americas. While consideration is given to the rise and progress of Christianity in both the Americas, particular attention will be paid the history of the churches within the United States. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

213. Survey of Modern Tendencies. This course consists of an historical critical examination and appraisal of the major tendencies in Christendom since about 1750. Designed for advanced students and for qualified pastors who desire to make a thorough-going survey under guidance. Two hours, throughout the year. Elective.

214. Christian Biography. A lecture, research course providing for the student the inspiration and information always desired but for which time has never been given. Consideration will be especially given to the key personalities of all the eras. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

215. History of the Reformed Churches Holding the Presbyterian System. A special research course with a written thesis. From time to time, those electing this course will meet in conference with Professor Slosser for discussion, assigned readings, and reports. There will be no regular meetings of the class. The thesis must be designed to show a mastery of the subject. Elective. Open to all students. Consult Dr. Slosser.

216. Special Research Theses. Senior and post-graduate students may, by a special arrangement with the professor, undertake to write a thesis or monograph upon some subject of Church History which has not yet been made a matter of easily available historical record. This would include the history of a presbytery, synod, conference, diocese, or of the church life of a particular section. The amount of credit given will depend upon the nature of the task undertaken and completed satisfactorily. Open to seniors and post-graduates, whether resident or non-resident. Elective. Consult Dr. Slosser.

217. Philosophies of History. An intensive lecture and textbook course in which will be considered the various philosophies of history as they have appeared in history. Special attention will be given to those philosophies that are predominantly materialistic, economical, geographical, psychological, dispensational, and theological. Such authors as Augustine, Hegel, Marx, Spengler, Sorokin, Berdyaev, du Nouy, A. J. Toynbee, together with Biblical writers will be considered. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

218. History of Christian Education. A lecture and textbook study of the methods and principles of religious education in Biblical times and in the centuries of the Christian era. This course is designed to furnish a background and foundation for the modern programs of religious education in Church Schools and in Week-Day Religious Schools, as well as in all Christian educational institutions. Two hours weekly, one semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

219. Seminar in Church Unity. A seminar in this field will vary as to the approach in accordance with the particular wishes of the students enrolled, or the most pressing demands in the field of church unity. Such approaches, for example, as factors other than theological which tend to divisions and which, if removed, would accomplish greater visible unity, is one field for special investigation. Other fields such as the varying doctrines of the church, the varying theories as to scripture usage, and differences as to the more efficient forms of church government, may be made subjects for special investigation. Two hours weekly, one semester. Elective.

220. Eschatology in History. This course consists in an examination of the doctrines relative to future events as found in the Bible and in various periods and with various church denominations in history. Millennialism will receive special attention. A textbook and lecture course. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

221. Christian Literature. A reading course with weekly two-hour lectures on great Christian writings, early church and patristic, medieval, and modern national literatures. In addition to the reading, all of which may be by English translation, written criticisms will be required. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. McCloy.

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to one thousand dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 85 per cent. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for 1954-1955 is I Corinthians 7; and for 1955-1956 it is Hebrews 9.

4. In September, 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for 1954-1955 is Zechariah 9:9-13; and for 1955-1956 it is Job 19:25-27.

5. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shady-side Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October, 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. On November 17, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved and accepted the creation of a scholarship fund by Seminary President Clifford E. Barbour as a memorial to his mother, to be known as "The Jennie Rigg Barbour Memorial Prize." This prize, paying four hundred dollars annually, is to be assigned to that member of the graduating class who has taken his full course of instruction in this institution and who has achieved the second highest academic rank of his class, if in the judgment of the faculty he is worthy in all other respects. It is hoped that the student will use this income for further study either within an academic institution or by the enlargement of his own library.

8. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester. Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Dean by not later than the first week of classes their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination. The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

Latin—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

Classical Greek—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

German—Translation of German into English and English into German

French—Translation of French into English and English into French

Philosophy—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

History—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A.D. 476; (c) Medieval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

Other Subjects on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

9. In May, 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

10. In July, 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:"

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship. In view of the situation in the financial world, additional endowments are imperative.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

At the point where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio, the first settlement of what was ultimately the City of Pittsburgh arose soon after 1758. In the great migration of peoples to the West, it served as the natural gateway for travelers by boat or by wagon. Numerous colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians came to the Western Pennsylvania counties bordering these waterways and established farm homes and churches. Others, later, joined the ever-rolling procession to the plains of the Mississippi and beyond.

Wherever Presbyterians went they carried a demand for education. Piety and learning were never separated; and the crowning glory of all education was the study of theology. Throughout this area schools and academies were in close association with the Presbyterian churches. Three of them, namely, Amity and Prosperity under Thaddeus Dodd, Upper Buffalo under Joseph Smith, and the Chartiers Church under John McMillan, gave instruction in theology to a number of young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Dodd held classes at Amity as early as 1781. There is a direct line of descent from these pioneer schools to the Western Theological Seminary.

During the first quarter of the nineteenth century, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware of the need of specialized, professional training for ministerial candidates beyond the college level, and, further, of the value of such training within a Christian community of fellow students. Princeton Theological Seminary was established in 1813, and some twelve years later the General Assembly founded the Western Theological Seminary in a region that faced the continually receding horizon of the West.

The first classes met in 1827 with two instructors and four students. In the one hundred and twenty-eight years since then, three thousand eight hundred and eighteen students have registered at the Seminary, and, of these, two thousand one hundred and eighty-four have gone forth as graduates. The faculty of the Western Theological Seminary through the years has been composed of eminent churchmen and scholars: Luther Halsey, John W. Nevin, Melancthon W. Jacobus, Alexander A. Hodge, Benjamin B. Warfield, Matthew B. Riddle, David S. Schaff, James H. Snowden, and James A. Kelso. These men have bequeathed to the school a tone of high scholarship and humble devotion which are the dominant elements in the Seminary life to this day.

The missionary interest has ever been strong. Elisha P. Swift, one of the first instructors, was the executive secretary of the original Western Foreign Missionary Society which later became the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The first missionaries to India, John C. Lowrie and William Reed, were members of the class of 1829.

The main function of the Western Theological Seminary has been the training of ministers for the pastorate, whether urban or rural. The abiding concern of both its faculty and the administrative officers has been the preparing of young men for this glorious task. Although a number of our candidates throughout a century and a quarter have taken up the more specialized ministry of foreign missionary or college teaching, the greatest number enter the pastorate.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by the President, Vice-President, and Dean. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The administrative officers, together with a representative of the Board of Trustees, are members of the Council on Theological Education of the Presbyterian Church. The Seminary is a member in good standing of the American Association of Theological Schools and is fully accredited by that body.

Although the Western Theological Seminary has represented the main stream of Presbyterian thought and has been free of extremes in both theology and practice, it has been warmly hospitable to students from all the major evangelical bodies.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, are located the offices of the Dean.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required from which are deducted all breakage costs.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall where resident students, except those living in apartments, are required to take their meals. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

Marvin Social Hall, located in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for informal conferences and social gatherings.

The Gymnasium may be used for basketball, volley ball and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is provided by the athletic committee of the student Presbytery. Use of the Gymnasium by groups other than students is under the supervision of the Administrative officers.

Lowrie Hall is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children. Rentals vary according to the size of the apartment (see page 24). Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be provided by each family. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required from which are deducted all breakage costs.

808 Ridge Avenue is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road. This four-story structure, the recent gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company, contains the offices of the President, Vice-President, members of the Faculty, Business Manager, two large lecture halls and the student lounge. On the third floor are nine single rooms for students and the apartment of the Instructor-in-Residence, The Rev. William A. Nicholson, and Mrs. Nicholson.

A suitable Coffee Shop is available for the convenience of the students.

Plans for the Future include completion of the quadrangle with new chapel, east wing and landscaped court.

LIBRARY

The library of seventy thousand volumes is one of the glories of the Western Seminary. It began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by Alexander Campbell and has received notable additions from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields, and N. W. Conkling funds, and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete of its kind in this country, is available to students of English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library is housed in Swift Hall. It consists of a spacious reading room, a browsing room, the librarian's office, a study room for the faculty and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The library subscribes to over one hundred periodicals representing the main denominational divisions in America and offering a broad survey of theological thought both here and in Europe.

ADVANTAGES OF PITTSBURGH

The city of Pittsburgh, located where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality and every profession and skill. Consequently, students have an excellent opportunity to observe industrial and labor conditions.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Pennsylvania College for Women* are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and various Carnegie free libraries, together with the great university and college libraries, offer their vast resources to all students. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, the various concert series, the choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. Erected in 1939 at a cost of one and one-half million dollars, it furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations are represented in the Pittsburgh area and afford the students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in both its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the third largest presbytery in the Presbyterian Church. Within its bounds are one hundred and thirty-five churches with a total membership of eighty thousand and one hundred and thirty-six. Of these, about twenty have more than a thousand members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

Once known as the "Smoky City," Pittsburgh is now attaining distinction as a clean city. More impressive than its Smoke-Control Program, however, is Pittsburgh's Point Park Program, its vast network of newly constructed parkways, a planned civic arena, a new airport which is the second largest in the country, and many other improvements to this historic city.

DEPARTMENT OF FIELD WORK

Western Seminary is fortunate in that it is located in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world. The many churches of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia provide opportunities for students in city, suburban, and rural situations

The Department of Field Work, under the supervision of the Director of Field Work, assists students in securing opportunities for service in churches in this area where they may gain experience in many practical aspects of the Christian ministry. Such service may be as student ministers, pastors' assistants, supply preachers, youth work and church school leaders, or social settlement workers. Financial remuneration is commensurate with the service rendered. The benefits derived by the student in practical experience and material rewards are important; but neither is the primary consideration. The basic criterion of field service effort is the value of the service the student renders to the church which he serves.

The Department endeavors to direct students to opportunities where their abilities may best be suited. However, no assurance of employment can be given to any student. The decision rests with the church or organization concerned.

Field work experiences and problems are integrated with classroom instruction. The extent of field service any student may assume is determined by his academic accomplishment. A student whose grade average drops must discontinue his field work or reduce his Seminary studies.

Reports of field work are submitted by the students to the Director of Field Work. Faculty counsel is given where necessary. Discussion of various problems is provided in the courses in Pastoral Theology.

SENIOR WORSHIP SERVICE

Each candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree in his Senior year is required to conduct a service of public worship, with sermon, attended by the faculty, student body, and friends. This is an essential part of the spiritual life of the Seminary and is to be conducted in a manner which preserves the best values and noblest traditions of worship. Conferences with the faculty precede and follow each service.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

STUDENT PRESBYTERY

The students of the Seminary are organized as a Student Presbytery in accordance with the Presbyterian system of government. Its officers are: Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer. The standing committees are: Faith and Life, Athletic, Social Education and Action, Social, Inter-Seminary, Student-Faculty Relations, Conference. The professors are ex officio members of the Student Presbytery.

STUDENT DEVOTIONAL LIFE

Students who are not engaged in supply preaching are expected to relate themselves to one of the churches of the community and to attend public worship.

Regular morning chapel services are held each day, Tuesday through Friday, under the leadership of the faculty and the Middler and Senior students. The entire school gathers weekly for a conference conducted by invited speakers who are leaders in fields of interest to the ministry. A list of the speakers and their subjects is given on Page 40.

In addition to these scheduled services, the Christian Life Committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the corporate prayer life of the students. The committee supervises a brief period of devotions in the dining hall at the evening meal, and additional voluntary exercises. One day of each year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer. An outstanding leader in American religious life is invited to present a theme for meditation and prayer. Students are expected to attend all services.

THE CHOIR

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed of students, students' wives, and members of the staff, its make-up depending on the number and the abilities of those in attendance at the Seminary in any given year. Programs are given in the chapel and in the churches of the district at various times.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A good gymnasium, equipped with shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. provides courtesy memberships, with the privilege of the swimming pool, to Seminary students. Tennis courts in the park facing the Seminary and the athletic field of the Allegheny High School are available to the students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Social gatherings are held throughout the year in Marvin Social Hall and the Student Lounge at 808 Ridge Avenue. These provide occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association holds regular meetings under the sponsorship of faculty wives and contributes appreciably to the social life of the Seminary.

PRE-SEMINARY COLLEGE CURRICULUM

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS ENTRANCE PROCEDURES

Western Theological Seminary offers courses in theology to those preparing for the Christian ministry or related fields of service, and to those who desire a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith. Women are admitted as full-time or part-time students on the same basis as men. Members of the student body fall into several classifications: partial, auditors, special, graduate, and undergraduate.

Partial students are those who hold a college degree and wish to take a limited number of hours for credit, but are not necessarily preparing for a Christian vocation. These may enroll upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Auditors are those who are practicing, ordained clergymen without a college degree; or those who do hold a college degree but who do not wish to receive credit. These may be admitted upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, a letter from their ecclesiastical body, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Special students are those who wish to specialize in the work of a particular department, rather than take the full curriculum. Arrangements must be made with the head of the particular department. Special students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, college transcript, letters from the home pastor and college administration, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Partial, Auditing, and Special students may not register for post-graduate courses without permission of the Dean and the professor in charge.

Graduate students are those who hold college and seminary degrees, enrolled in a degree or non-degree program, either full time or part time. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, seminary transcript, letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Undergraduate students are those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See Requirements for Admission that follow.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

A Formal Application, to be found at the back of the catalogue, must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Seminary. This must be supported by the following credentials:

Application Fee

A check or money order for ten dollars must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. The application fee is not returnable if the application is withdrawn. It is refunded if the applicant is rejected.

Photograph

A small, recent photograph must accompany the application. This will be retained in the applicant's file.

College Transcript

A record of the applicant's college work to date is required at the time the application is submitted. Upon completion of his college work, the applicant must submit a final transcript showing the date of graduation and the degree received. The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited college or university.

Letters of Recommendation

A letter must be submitted from the applicant's home pastor, certifying as to the applicant's character, abilities, and general aptitudes for the Christian ministry.

A letter must be submitted from the ecclesiastical body in authority over the applicant's church, certifying that the applicant has been approved by the body as a candidate for the gospel ministry. Applicants who have not been officially received under the care of their respective ecclesiastical authorities at the time of application must arrange for this letter to be submitted immediately after such formal action has been taken.

A letter must be submitted from the Dean of the college, certifying as to the applicant's capacities to pursue graduate study.

A letter of recommendation from a person other than a relative, pastor or college official who can speak of your character, personality and accomplishments.

Personal Interview

A personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary is highly desirable. Where this is not possible, a letter giving the applicant's educational, family, and religious background, as well as his views of and plans for the Christian ministry, is required.

Certificate of Health

A statement from a physician certifying to the applicant's physical health must be submitted before seminary training is begun.

Personality and Aptitude Tests

In conformity with the recommendation of the American Association of Theological Schools, every undergraduate student is required to submit to a series of tests for aptitudes, personality, and intelligence, under the direction of Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor with the Department of Christian Education. Those who have not taken them previous to entering Seminary will do so in the course of the orientation program.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of work taken at the seminary and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or other administrative official.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

MATRICULATION

As he begins his seminary study, each student is expected to take the Matriculation Pledge, which has been subscribed to by all entering students since 1829, as follows:

"Deeply impressed with a sense of the need of improving in knowledge, prudence, and piety in my preparation for the gospel ministry, I solemnly promise, in reliance on divine grace, that I will faithfully and diligently attend to all the instructions of this Seminary, and that I will conscientiously and vigilantly observe all the rules and regulations specified in the Plan for its instruction and government, so far as the same relate to the students; and that I will obey all the lawful requisitions and readily yield to all the wholesome admonitions of the Professors and Directors of the Seminary while I shall continue as a member of it."

A student is on probation during the first semester of his enrollment. It is not permissible for a student to take courses at another institution during the Seminary year, except by special consent of the Faculty.

A student must maintain a C average (1 quality point) in order to carry a full schedule of courses. A student falling below this minimum in any one semester will be required to carry a reduced schedule in the ensuing semester.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	90% to 100%	3	quality points
B	80% to 89%	2	“ “
C	70% to 79%	1	“ “
D	60% to 69%	0	“ “
F	Failure	-1	“ “
I	Incomplete	-1	“ “ (until work is completed.)

Examinations are given in most courses throughout the period of the semester, with final examinations being given before the semester's close. A student who fails an examination is permitted to take a re-examination. A second failure may result in the loss of the student's class standing or in his being classified as a partial student. A fee will be charged for an examination given at a later date when a student's absence from the regular examination was unexcused.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE

B. D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 100 semester hours' work.
2. Presentation of a thesis written in the student's major field. (Thesis subjects must be approved by December 1 of the academic year in which the degree is to be conferred, by the head of the department in which the thesis is to be written. The thesis, satisfactorily completed, must be in the hands of the professor by April 8.)
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.
4. Satisfactory conducting of a complete service of worship in the Seminary chapel with students and faculty in attendance.

Students transferring from other theological seminaries must be in residence at Western Seminary for a minimum of one full academic year in order to become a candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree.

GRADUATE STUDIES

MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must be in residence at this seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours per week of regular curriculum work. Distribution of courses between the major and minor subjects will be determined in each instance by the professor in whose department the thesis is to be written, and the Dean. Where possible, two thirds of the total hours must be devoted to the department of the major subject and the remainder to the minor.
3. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by the major professor.
4. The candidate, at the close of the year, must pass rigid examinations, both oral and written, in the major and minor fields of study.

Note: No candidate may receive the Bachelor of Divinity degree and the Master of Theology degree at the same Commencement.

DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must pass satisfactorily a preliminary qualifying examination in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; theology, including philosophy and ethics; Christian education (this may be optional, depending upon the student's preparation in the field); and practical theology, including homiletics. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Preliminary qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.

3. The candidate must select one field of major study and, with the advice of his major professor, submit to the committee on graduate studies for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. He must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the committee on graduate studies.
4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations in the major and minor fields, followed by oral examinations conducted by the committee on graduate studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.
5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages other than his native tongue. He must submit to examinations in these languages and pass them satisfactorily before he commences research for his dissertation.
6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation on a piece of original investigation or a project on parish or institutional activities of the church.
7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities and who wish to transfer to this seminary must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the committee on curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the committee on graduate studies of the faculty.

MASTER'S DEGREES IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The churches are offering more opportunities for women professionally trained to serve as directors of Christian education and pastors' assistants than there are qualified persons to accept them. Western Theological Seminary, in cooperation with the University of Pittsburgh, is now helping to meet this need. College graduates can secure the Master of Education or the Master of Arts degree, with a major in religious education, from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

ADVANCED DEGREES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The postgraduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to students of the Seminary. The requirements for the Master's degree at the University of Pittsburgh are thirty semester credits and for the Doctor's degree ninety credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the graduate faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the seminary who desire to secure credits at the University:

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary who desire to take the master's degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of religious education may transfer as many as six semester credits from the seminary as advanced standing toward this degree. The remaining twenty-four credits required for the master's degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. These course credits need not all be taken in religious education. Certain courses in education, sociology, history, philosophy, psychology, and other fields are open to theological students.

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary may be allowed a maximum of thirty credits as advanced standing toward the Doctor of Philosophy or the Doctor of Education degree in religious education. As many as six additional credits toward a doctor's degree may be granted for courses taken beyond the three-year theological course.

A regular summer session or a semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh or elsewhere unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Authorization in writing must be secured by the student from the Dean of the Seminary.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before registering for a new semester and before graduation or the release of official transcripts.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Financial assistance is available from the following sources:

1. Presbyterian students should apply for aid, through their Presbyteries, to the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. The amounts thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.
2. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students may receive aid. Prospective students desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the president. The distribution is made in three installments: October 1, December 1, and March 1.
3. Small amounts may be borrowed from the Seminary at a low rate of interest, for emergency needs.
4. When necessary, arrangements for a payment plan to cover a semester's expenses may be made at the Business Office.

THE CURRICULUM

The Seminary year is divided into two semesters. The curriculum is designed to provide courses for a comprehensive theological education.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSES OF STUDY

DR. FREEDMAN, DR. HILLS, MR. WALTHER

1a-1b. English Bible. This course is designed to give a familiarity and understanding of the Scriptures in English. The King James and Revised Standard Versions are used. Emphasis is placed upon a knowledge of the contents of the Bible as a necessary prerequisite to further study. In the second semester, several sessions will be given to the history of the English Bible. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

2. Old Testament World. A general survey course dealing with the salient points of Old Testament theology, history, and introduction. Salvation history in the setting of the civilization of the Ancient Near East is the central theme. There is extensive reading in the ancient sources and modern scholarly works, in addition to the Bible. Three hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required.

3-4. Hebrew Grammar-Exegesis. Elementary Hebrew grammar and vocabulary, with emphasis on the study of theological terms and conceptions. Selected passages from the Old Testament are read. In the second semester, sound principles and methods of Hebrew exegesis are stressed. This includes textual criticism, lexicographical and syntactical analysis, and comparative study of the versions. Four hours weekly throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

5. Literature of the Old Testament. This course deals with the forms of Old Testament literature, oral tradition and literary history of the Old Testament books. Included is the critical analysis of the different books, the formation of the Canon, and the transmission of the text. The problem of revelation and inspiration is also considered. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

6. Old Testament Prophets. This course deals with the prophetic movement in the framework of Israelite religion and history. The message of each prophet is studied exegetically and critically. Stress is laid upon the contribution of the prophets and their significance for today. The text is the Bible. Also used are commentaries and reference works. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required.

11. Seminar in Israelite Culture. Investigation of special problems in the social and cultural history of Israel. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

12. Old Testament Theology. God's action in history and Israel's response in faith are the main themes of this course. Key theological terms are analyzed: covenant, election, salvation, etc. Recent trends in this field are evaluated through a survey of current literature. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

13. The Intertestamental Period. A study of the history and literature of Judaism in the period between the Old and New Testaments. The Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha are treated along with the sectarian scrolls dating from the Maccabean age. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

New Testament

MR. WALTHER, MR. NICHOLSON, DR. MCCLOY, DR. REID

A knowledge of New Testament Greek is required for graduation. Students who have not had college Greek take Course No. 101; others take Course No. 102.

101. Greek Grammar. This course is designed for students who have had no previous preparation in Greek. After the first four weeks the course is divided into two divisions. The aim of the first is to prepare the students to read the Greek New Testament by a mastery of forms, syntax and vocabulary. The aim of the second division is to impart a general knowledge of the significance of the Greek language in Bible studies and the early Church, a study of important words and phrases, and exercises in the use of commentaries and various translations. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

102. Advanced Reading in Greek. This course is designed for students who have had Greek in college. Passages from the New Testament and from Wikgren's Hellenistic Greek Texts are read after a rapid review of Nunn's Short Syntax of New Testament Greek. Facility in the art of translating as a prerequisite to exegesis is the goal. Outside readings are assigned to students with adequate background. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. (Alternate to Course No. 101.) Required.

111. New Testament Introduction and History. The historical and religious background of the New Testament followed by a literary and critical study of each New Testament book. The aim is to give a constructive foundation for all further New Testament study. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required.

121. The Gospels. The Synoptic Problem is studied using the Huck-Lietzmann Synopsis. Various schools of Gospel interpretation are studied, and the positive contributions of each are assessed. The life of Jesus Christ according to the Synoptic outline and the Johannine interpretation of the life of Jesus Christ are examined. The Greek text is freely used, and some attention is given to textual problems and their solution. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required.

122. New Testament Exegesis. Introduction to method of exegesis with examples. Exegesis of one of Paul's shorter letters with the double purpose of developing skill in exegesis and of becoming familiar with phases of Paul's thought and experience. Two hours, weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required.

132. Selected Problems of New Testament Study. An examination of current New Testament problems with attention to the literature of the field. A number of important, twentieth-century books will be read and discussed together with supplementary lectures. The course is designed for qualified students desiring to do advanced work in the New Testament. Two hours weekly, second semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

133. Seminar on the Greek New Testament. Careful reading and exegesis of selected New Testament books. Two hours weekly, either semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

136. Sermon Ideas and Illustrations in the Greek New Testament. The purpose of this course is to discover the significance of Greek tenses, vivid phrases, picturesque nouns, verbs and prepositions as ideas and illustrations for sermons. The emphasis is upon preaching values in the Greek Testament and the course is designed to give to the students a method and a desire to continue such study throughout their preaching ministry. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective. Dr. Reid.

202. General Church History. The Medieval Era, the Reformation, and the Modern Era with introduction to American Church History. Two hours weekly, throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

203. Ecumenics. An intensive study of the history, problems, and factors related to or involved in the more modern efforts to attain greater visible unity in the Christian Church. Local and world-wide ecumenical movements will be examined and appraised. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Open to post-graduates and qualified pastors.

211. The Expansion of Christianity. The history of Christianity's extension with particular reference to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This course will include a brief survey of the more significant movements within modern Christianity causing the retreat or the advance of the Church of Christ. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

212. American Church History. This study opens with a survey of European Church History with reference to the beginnings of the Church in the Americas. While consideration is given to the rise and progress of Christianity in both the Americas, particular attention will be paid the history of the churches within the United States. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

213. Survey of Modern Tendencies. This course consists of an historical critical examination and appraisal of the major tendencies in Christendom since about 1750. Designed for advanced students and for qualified pastors who desire to make a thorough-going survey under guidance. Two hours, throughout the year. Elective.

214. Christian Biography. A lecture, research course providing for the student the inspiration and information always desired but for which time has never been given. Consideration will be especially given to the key personalities of all the eras. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

215. History of the Reformed Churches Holding the Presbyterian System. A special research course with a written thesis. From time to time, those electing this course will meet in conference with Professor Slosser for discussion, assigned readings, and reports. There will be no regular meetings of the class. The thesis must be designed to show a mastery of the subject. Elective. Open to all students. Consult Dr. Slosser.

216. Special Research Theses. Senior and post-graduate students may, by a special arrangement with the professor, undertake to write a thesis or monograph upon some subject of Church History which has not yet been made a matter of easily available historical record. This would include the history of a presbytery, synod, conference, diocese, or of the church life of a particular section. The amount of credit given will depend upon the nature of the task undertaken and completed satisfactorily. Open to seniors and post-graduates, whether resident or non-resident. Elective. Consult Dr. Slosser.

217. Philosophies of History. An intensive lecture and textbook course in which will be considered the various philosophies of history as they have appeared in history. Special attention will be given to those philosophies that are predominantly materialistic, economical, geographical, psychological, dispensational, and theological. Such authors as Augustine, Hegel, Marx, Spengler, Sorokin, Berdyaev, du Nouy, A. J. Toynbee, together with Biblical writers will be considered. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

218. History of Christian Education. A lecture and textbook study of the methods and principles of religious education in Biblical times and in the centuries of the Christian era. This course is designed to furnish a background and foundation for the modern programs of religious education in Church Schools and in Week-Day Religious Schools, as well as in all Christian educational institutions. Two hours weekly, one semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

219. Seminar in Church Unity. A seminar in this field will vary as to the approach in accordance with the particular wishes of the students enrolled, or the most pressing demands in the field of church unity. Such approaches, for example, as factors other than theological which tend to divisions and which, if removed, would accomplish greater visible unity, is one field for special investigation. Other fields such as the varying doctrines of the church, the varying theories as to scripture usage, and differences as to the more efficient forms of church government, may be made subjects for special investigation. Two hours weekly, one semester. Elective.

220. Eschatology in History. This course consists in an examination of the doctrines relative to future events as found in the Bible and in various periods and with various church denominations in history. Millennialism will receive special attention. A textbook and lecture course. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

221. Christian Literature. A reading course with weekly two-hour lectures on great Christian writings, early church and patristic, medieval, and modern national literatures. In addition to the reading, all of which may be by English translation, written criticisms will be required. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. McCloy.

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to one thousand dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 85 per cent. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for 1955-1956 is Hebrews 9; and for 1956-1957 it is I Peter 4.

4. In September, 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for 1955-1956 is Job 19:25-27; and for 1956-1957 Genesis 4:7.

5. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shady-side Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October, 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. On November 17, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved and accepted the creation of a scholarship fund by Seminary President Clifford E. Barbour as a memorial to his mother, to be known as "The Jennie Rigg Barbour Memorial Prize." This prize, paying four hundred dollars annually, is to be assigned to that member of the graduating class who has taken his full course of instruction in this institution and who has achieved the second highest academic rank of his class, if in the judgment of the faculty he is worthy in all other respects. It is hoped that the student will use this income for further study either within an academic institution or by the enlargement of his own library.

8. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester. Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Dean by not later than the first week of classes their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination. The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

Latin—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

Classical Greek—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

French—Translation of French into English and English into French

Philosophy—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

History—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A.D. 476; (c) Medieval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

Other Subjects on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

9. In May, 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

10. In July, 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following: . . ."

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

At the point where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio, the first settlement of what was ultimately the City of Pittsburgh arose soon after 1758. In the great migration of peoples to the West, it served as the natural gateway for travelers by boat or by wagon. Numerous colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians came to the Western Pennsylvania counties bordering these waterways and established farm homes and churches. Others, later, joined the ever-rolling procession to the plains of the Mississippi and beyond.

Wherever Presbyterians went they carried a demand for education. Piety and learning were never separated; and the crowning glory of all education was the study of theology. Throughout this area schools and academies were in close association with the Presbyterian churches. Three of them, namely, Amity and Prosperity under Thaddeus Dodd, Upper Buffalo under Joseph Smith, and the Chartiers Church under John McMillan, gave instruction in theology to a number of young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Dodd held classes at Amity as early as 1781. There is a direct line of descent from these pioneer schools to the Western Theological Seminary.

During the first quarter of the nineteenth century, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware of the need of specialized, professional training for ministerial candidates beyond the college level, and, further, of the value of such training within a Christian community of fellow students. Princeton Theological Seminary was established in 1813, and some twelve years later the General Assembly founded the Western Theological Seminary in a region that faced the continually receding horizon of the West.

The first classes met in 1827 with two instructors and four students. In the one hundred and twenty-eight years since then, three thousand eight hundred and eighteen students have registered at the Seminary, and, of these, two thousand one hundred and eighty-four have gone forth as graduates. The faculty of the Western Theological Seminary through the years has been composed of eminent churchmen and scholars: Luther Halsey, John W. Nevin, Melancthon W. Jacobus, Alexander A. Hodge, Benjamin B. Warfield, Matthew B. Riddle, David S. Schaff, James H. Snowden, and James A. Kelso. These men have bequeathed to the school a tone of high scholarship and humble devotion which are the dominant elements in the Seminary life to this day.

The missionary interest has ever been strong. Elisha P. Swift, one of the first instructors, was the executive secretary of the original Western Foreign Missionary Society which later became the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The first missionaries to India, John C. Lowrie and William Reed, were members of the class of 1829.

The main function of the Western Theological Seminary has been the training of ministers for the pastorate, whether urban or rural. The abiding concern of both its faculty and the administrative officers has been the preparing of young men for this glorious task. Although a number of our candidates throughout a century and a quarter have taken up the more specialized ministry of foreign missionary or college teaching, the greatest number enter the pastorate.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by the President, Vice-President, Dean and Business Manager. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The administrative officers, together with a representative of the Board of Trustees, are members of the Council on Theological Education of the Presbyterian Church. The Seminary is a member in good standing of the American Association of Theological Schools and is fully accredited by that body.

Although the Western Theological Seminary has represented the main stream of Presbyterian thought and has been free of extremes in both theology and practice, it has been warmly hospitable to students from all the major evangelical bodies.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, are located the offices of the Dean.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required from which are deducted all breakage costs.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall where resident students, except those living in apartments, are required to take their meals. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

Marvin Social Hall, located in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for informal conferences and social gatherings.

The Gymnasium may be used for basketball, volley ball and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is provided by the athletic committee of the student Presbytery. Use of the Gymnasium by groups other than students is under the supervision of the Administrative officers.

Lowrie Hall is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children. Rentals vary according to the size of the apartment (see page 24). Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be provided by each family. A deposit of ten dollars per year is required from which are deducted all breakage costs.

808 Ridge Avenue is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road. This four-story structure, the gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company, contains the offices of the President, Vice-President, members of the Faculty, Business Manager, two large lecture halls and the student lounge. On the third floor are seven single rooms for students and the apartment of the Instructor-in-Residence, The Rev. William A. Nicholson, and Mrs. Nicholson.

A coffee shop is available for the convenience of the students.

LIBRARY

The library of seventy thousand volumes is one of the glories of the Western Seminary. It began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by Alexander Campbell and has received notable additions from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields, and N. W. Conkling funds, and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete of its kind in this country, is available to students of English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library is housed in Swift Hall. It consists of a spacious reading room, a browsing room, the librarian's office, a study room for the faculty and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The library subscribes to over one hundred periodicals representing the main denominational divisions in America and offering a broad survey of theological thought both here and in Europe.

The Warrington Room in addition to housing the great hymn collection also serves as a listening studio for recorded music. The Student Choir has provided a record player and a library of recorded religious music including all the major choral oratorios and liturgical selections. The room is furnished to provide a comfortable and pleasant atmosphere for the enjoyment of good music.

ADVANTAGES OF PITTSBURGH

The city of Pittsburgh, located where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality and every profession and skill. Consequently, students have an excellent opportunity to observe industrial and labor conditions.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Chatham College are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and various Carnegie free libraries, together with the great university and college libraries, offer their vast resources to all students. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, the various concert series, the choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. Erected in 1939 at a cost of one and one-half million dollars, it furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations are represented in the Pittsburgh area and afford the students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in both its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the third largest presbytery in the Presbyterian Church. Within its bounds are one hundred and thirty-five churches with a total membership of eighty thousand and one hundred and thirty-six. Of these, about twenty have more than a thousand members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

Once known as the "Smoky City," Pittsburgh is now attaining distinction as a clean city. More impressive than its Smoke-Control Program, however, is Pittsburgh's Point Park Program, its vast network of newly constructed parkways, a planned civic arena, a new airport which is the second largest in the country, and many other improvements to this historic city.

DEPARTMENT OF FIELD WORK

Western Seminary is fortunate in that it is located in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world. The many churches of Western Pennsylvania, Ohio, and West Virginia provide opportunities for students in city, suburban, and rural situations

The Department of Field Work, under the supervision of the Director of Field Work, assists students in securing opportunities for service in churches in this area where they may gain experience in many practical aspects of the Christian ministry. Such service may be as student ministers, pastors' assistants, supply preachers, youth work and church school leaders, or social settlement workers. Financial remuneration is commensurate with the service rendered. The benefits derived by the student in practical experience and material rewards are important; but neither is the primary consideration. The basic criterion of field service effort is the value of the service the student renders to the church which he serves.

The Department endeavors to direct students to opportunities where their abilities may best be suited. However, no assurance of employment can be given to any student. The decision rests with the church or organization concerned.

Field work experiences and problems are integrated with classroom instruction. The extent of field service any student may assume is determined by his academic accomplishment. A student whose grade average drops must discontinue his field work or reduce his Seminary studies.

Reports of field work are submitted by the students to the Director of Field Work. Faculty counsel is given where necessary. Discussion of various problems is provided in the courses in Pastoral Theology.

SENIOR WORSHIP SERVICE

Each candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree in his Senior year is required to conduct a service of public worship, with sermon, attended by the faculty, student body, and friends. This is an essential part of the spiritual life of the Seminary and is to be conducted in a manner which preserves the best values and noblest traditions of worship. Conferences with the faculty precede and follow each service.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

STUDENT PRESBYTERY

The students of the Seminary are organized as a Student Presbytery in accordance with the Presbyterian system of government. Its officers are: Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer. The standing committees are: Faith and Life, Athletic, Social Education and Action, Social, Inter-Seminary, Student-Faculty Relations, Conference. The professors are ex officio members of the Student Presbytery.

STUDENT DEVOTIONAL LIFE

Students who are not engaged in supply preaching are expected to relate themselves to one of the churches of the community and to attend public worship.

Regular morning chapel services are held each day, Tuesday through Friday, under the leadership of the faculty and the Middler and Senior students. The entire school gathers weekly for a conference conducted by invited speakers who are leaders in fields of interest to the ministry. A list of the speakers is given on page 43.

In addition to these scheduled services, the Christian Life Committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the corporate prayer life of the students. The committee supervises a brief period of devotions in the dining hall at the evening meal, and additional voluntary exercises. One day of each year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer. An outstanding leader in American religious life is invited to present a theme for meditation and prayer. Students are expected to attend all services.

THE CHOIR

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed of students, students' wives, and members of the staff, its make-up depending on the number and the abilities of those in attendance at the Seminary in any given year. Programs are given in the chapel and in the churches of the district at various times.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A good gymnasium, equipped with shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. provides courtesy memberships, with the privilege of the swimming pool, to Seminary students. Tennis courts in the park facing the Seminary and the athletic field of the Allegheny High School are available to the students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Social gatherings are held throughout the year. These provide occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association holds regular meetings under the sponsorship of faculty wives and contributes appreciably to the social life of the Seminary.

PRE-SEMINARY COLLEGE CURRICULUM

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

English—literature, composition, speech and related studies. At least 6 semesters.

History—ancient, modern European, and American. At least 3 semesters.

Philosophy—orientation in history, content and method. At least 3 semesters.

Natural sciences—preferably physics, chemistry and biology. At least 2 semesters.

Social sciences—psychology, sociology, economics, political science and education. At least 6 semesters, including at least 1 semester of psychology.

Foreign languages—one or more of the following linguistic avenues to man's thought and tools of scholarly research: Latin, Greek, Hebrew, German, French. Students who anticipate post-graduate studies are urged to undertake these disciplines early in their training as opportunity offers. At least 4 semesters.

Religion—a thorough knowledge of the content of the Bible as indispensable, together with an introduction to the major religious traditions and theological problems in the context of the principal aspects of human culture outlined above. The pre-seminary student may well seek counsel of the seminary of his choice in order most profitably to use the resources of his college. At least 3 semesters.

Of the various possible areas of concentration, where areas of concentration are required, English, philosophy and history are regarded as the most desirable.

THE FUNCTION OF PRE-SEMINARY STUDIES

College courses prior to theological seminary should provide the cultural and intellectual foundations essential to an effective theological education. They should issue in at least three broad kinds of attainment.

1. The college work of a pre-seminary student should result in the ability to use certain tools of the educated man:

(a) The ability to write and speak English clearly and correctly. English composition should have this as a specific purpose, but this purpose should also be cultivated in all written work.

(b) The ability to think clearly. In some persons this ability is cultivated through courses in philosophy or specifically in logic. In others it is cultivated by the use of scientific method, or by dealing with critical problems in connection with literary and historical documents.

(c) The ability to read at least one foreign language and in some circumstances more than one.

2. The college work of a pre-seminary student should result in increased understanding of the world in which he lives:

(a) The world of men and ideas. This includes knowledge of English literature, philosophy and psychology.

(b) The world of nature. This is provided by knowledge of the natural sciences, including laboratory work.

(c) The world of human affairs. This is aided by knowledge of history and the social sciences.

3. The college work of the pre-seminary student should result in a sense of achievement:

(a) The degree of his mastery of his field of study is more important than the credits and grades which he accumulates.

(b) The sense of achievement may be encouraged through academic concentration, or through "honors" work, or through other plans for increasingly independent work with as much initiative on the student's part as he is able to use with profit.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS ENTRANCE PROCEDURES

Western Theological Seminary offers courses in theology to those preparing for the Christian ministry or related fields of service, and to those who desire a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith. Women are admitted as full-time or part-time students on the same basis as men. Members of the student body fall into several classifications: auditors, special, graduate and undergraduate.

Auditors are those who are practicing, ordained clergymen without a college degree; or those who do hold a college degree but who do not wish to receive credit. These may be admitted upon presentation of a formal application, a transcript of their college record, a letter from their ecclesiastical body, and a satisfactory personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Special students are those who are qualified to be enrolled for academic credit, but who are not regularly enrolled in a program leading to a degree and, therefore, not recognized as in regular candidacy. Special students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, college transcript, letters from the home pastor and college administration, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Auditing and Special students may not register for post-graduate courses without permission of the Dean and the professor in charge.

Graduate students are those who hold college and seminary degrees, enrolled in a degree or non-degree program, either full time or part time. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, seminary transcript, letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Undergraduate students are those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See Requirements for Admission that follow.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

A Formal Application, to be found at the back of the catalogue, must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Seminary. This must be supported by the following credentials:

Application Fee

A check or money order for ten dollars must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. The application fee is not returnable if the application is withdrawn. It is refunded if the applicant is rejected.

Photograph

College Transcript

A record of the applicant's college work to date is required at the time the application is submitted. Upon completion of his college work, the applicant must submit a final transcript showing the date of graduation and the degree received. The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited college or university.

Letters of Recommendation

A letter must be submitted from the applicant's home pastor, certifying as to the applicant's character, abilities, and general aptitudes for the Christian ministry.

A letter must be submitted from the ecclesiastical body in authority over the applicant's church, certifying that the applicant has been approved by the body as a candidate for the gospel ministry. Applicants who have not been officially received under the care of their respective ecclesiastical authorities at the time of application must arrange for this letter to be submitted immediately after such formal action has been taken.

A letter must be submitted from the Dean of the college, certifying as to the applicant's capacities to pursue graduate study.

A letter of recommendation from a person other than a relative, pastor or college official who can speak of your character, personality and accomplishments.

Personal Interview

A personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary is highly desirable. Where this is not possible, a letter giving the applicant's educational, family, and religious background, as well as his views of and plans for the Christian ministry, is required.

Certificate of Health

Personality and Aptitude Tests

In conformity with the recommendation of the American Association of Theological Schools, every undergraduate student is required to submit to a series of tests for aptitudes, personality, and intelligence, under the direction of Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor with the Department of Christian Education. Those who have not taken them previous to entering Seminary will do so in the course of the orientation program.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of work taken at the seminary and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or other administrative official.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

MATRICULATION

As he begins his seminary study, each student is expected to take the Matriculation Pledge, which has been subscribed to by all entering students since 1829, as follows:

"Deeply impressed with a sense of the need of improving in knowledge, prudence, and piety in my preparation for the gospel ministry, I solemnly promise, in reliance on divine grace, that I will faithfully and diligently attend to all the instructions of this Seminary, and that I will conscientiously and vigilantly observe all the rules and regulations specified in the Plan for its instruction and government, so far as the same relate to the students; and that I will obey all the lawful requisitions and readily yield to all the wholesome admonitions of the Professors and Directors of the Seminary while I shall continue as a member of it."

ACADEMIC STANDARDS

A student is on probation during the first semester of his enrollment. It is not permissible for a student to take courses at another institution during the Seminary year, except by special consent of the Faculty.

A student must maintain a C average (1 quality point) in order to carry a full schedule of courses.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	90% to 100%	3 quality points
B	80% to 89%	2 " "

C	70% to 79%	1	quality points
D	60% to 69%	0	" "
F	Failure	-1	" "
I	Incomplete	-1	" "	(until work is completed.)

Examinations are given in most courses throughout the period of the semester, with final examinations being given before the semester's close. A student who fails an examination is permitted to take a re-examination. A second failure may result in the loss of the student's class standing or in his being classified as a partial student. A fee will be charged for an examination given at a later date when a student's absence from the regular examination was unexcused.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE

B. D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 100 semester hours' work.
2. Presentation of a thesis.
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.
4. Satisfactory conducting of a complete service of worship in the Seminary chapel with students and faculty in attendance.

Students transferring from other theological seminaries must be in residence at Western Seminary for a minimum of one full academic year in order to become a candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree.

GRADUATE STUDIES

MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must be in residence at this seminary at least one academic year and complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours per week of regular curriculum work. The candidate must select one field of study and, with the advice of the professor in that field, submit to the Committee on Graduate Studies for approval a plan of study for the entire course.

3. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by the professor.
4. The candidate, at the close of the year, must pass rigid examinations, both oral and written, in his field of study.

Note: No candidate may receive the Bachelor of Divinity degree and the Master of Theology degree at the same Commencement.

DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university and a theological degree from this or some other seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must pass satisfactorily a preliminary qualifying examination in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; theology, including philosophy and ethics; Christian education (this may be optional, depending upon the student's preparation in the field); and practical theology, including homiletics. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Preliminary qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.
3. The candidate must select one field of study and, with the advice of the professor in that field, submit to the committee on graduate studies for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. He must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the committee on graduate studies.
4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations followed by oral examinations conducted by the committee on graduate studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.
5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages other than his native tongue. He must submit to examinations in these languages and pass them satisfactorily before he commences research for his dissertation.

6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation on a piece of original investigation or a project on parish or institutional activities of the church.
7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities and who wish to transfer to this seminary must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the committee on curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the committee on graduate studies of the faculty.

MASTER'S DEGREES IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The churches are offering more opportunities for women professionally trained to serve as directors of Christian education and pastors' assistants than there are qualified persons to accept them. Western Theological Seminary, in cooperation with the University of Pittsburgh, is now helping to meet this need. College graduates can secure the Master of Education or the Master of Arts degree, with a major in religious education, from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

ADVANCED DEGREES AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The postgraduate courses of the University of Pittsburgh are open to students of the Seminary. The requirements for the Master's degree at the University of Pittsburgh are thirty semester credits and for the Doctor's degree ninety credits.

The following formal regulations have been adopted by the graduate faculty of the University of Pittsburgh with reference to the students of the seminary who desire to secure credits at the University:

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary who desire to take the master's degree at the University of Pittsburgh in the field of religious education may transfer as many as six semester credits from the seminary as advanced standing toward this degree. The remaining twenty-four credits required for the master's degree must be taken at the University of Pittsburgh. These course credits need not all be taken in religious education. Certain courses in education, sociology, history, philosophy, psychology, and other fields are open to theological students.

Graduates from the three-year theological courses of the Western Theological Seminary may be allowed a maximum of thirty credits as advanced standing toward the Doctor of Philosophy or the Doctor of Education degree in religious education. As many as six additional credits toward a doctor's degree may be granted for courses taken beyond the three-year theological course.

A regular summer session or a semester must elapse between the time of the student's graduation from the seminary and the conferring of a graduate degree by the University of Pittsburgh.

No regular undergraduate student of the Western Theological Seminary may take extra courses of study at the University of Pittsburgh or elsewhere unless his standing in scholarship is satisfactory. Authorization in writing must be secured by the student from the Dean of the Seminary.

FEES AND EXPENSES

Fees for one year's residence:

	On Campus	Off Campus
Tuition	$300.00	$300.00

(Refundable at end of school year)

Lowrie Hall (for married couples and small families)

Seven furnished apartments.....$35—$50 monthly
Breakage deposit$10 per year
(Refundable at end of school year)

All apartment rents are payable monthly in advance. Applications for apartments should be made as early as possible, to establish priority.

All bills are payable in advance on the opening day of each semester. No deductions will be allowed for absence from individual meals.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before registering for a new semester and before graduation or the release of official transcripts.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Financial assistance is available from the following sources:

1. Presbyterian students should apply for aid, through their Presbyteries, to the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. The amounts thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.
2. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students may receive aid. Prospective students desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the president. The distribution is made in three installments: October 1, December 1, and March 1.
3. Small amounts may be borrowed from the Seminary at a low rate of interest, for emergency needs.
4. When necessary, arrangements for a payment plan to cover a semester's expenses may be made at the Business Office.

WORK SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

A unique Work Scholarship Program was recently instituted at Western whereby a student may earn a large percentage of his fees. Under this program, students may apply for one of a variety of assignments within the Seminary and receive compensation commensurate with the duties performed.

Work Scholarships that are available include: 20 Choir Members, 4 Waiters, one each of Chapel Assistant, Choir Manager, Dormitory Clerk, Head Waiter, Library Assistant, Maintenance Assistant, Organist, Student Lounge Attendant, "Western Watch" Assistant and several Special Assignments.

Assignments are made on the basis of need and qualifications and upon recommendation of the President and approval of the Faculty. Application for a Work Scholarship is made to the President prior to the beginning of each semester. Payment is made by check at the end of each semester.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSES OF STUDY

A. Introduction to Theological Education. This course is designed to provide the entering student with an introduction to the structure and content of the curriculum of the seminary, in the light of the social, cultural, and political situation of our time. It is conducted cooperatively by members of the biblical, historical, and theological departments. Two hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required.

Biblical Studies

DR. MCCLOY

1. English Bible. A course designed to give a familiarity with understanding of the Scriptures in English. The King James and Revised Standard Versions are used. Emphasis is placed upon a knowledge of the contents of the Bible as a prerequisite to further studies in the field. In the second semester several sessions will be given to the history of the English Bible. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

11. Biblical Language. A course designed to lead students to an appreciation of Greek and Hebrew as the languages of biblical revelation. The distinctive elements of biblical Greek and Hebrew are surveyed in the areas of word formation, inflection, and syntax. Included is a brief treatment of key biblical concepts as illuminated by studies of them in their original contexts. Stress is placed on increasing facility in the use of simple linguistic tools, particularly the lexicon and the concordance. Opportunity will be given for men with facility and interest to advance into a section giving intensive emphasis to linguistic study. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

20. Biblical Introduction and History. A survey of the historical and religious background of the Old and New Testaments combined with literary and critical study of each book. Reading in ancient non-biblical sources and modern scholarly works. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Middler. Required.

21. Biblical Exegesis. An introduction to the methods of textual criticism and exegesis followed by detailed study of selected biblical books in English translation but with constant reference to the original text. Special stress on the use of critical commentaries. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

22. Biblical Exegesis. For qualified students who do not take Biblical Exegesis #21, a special section studies exegesis stressing the original languages. Six hours weekly throughout the year.

31. Biblical Theology. A course designed to acquaint students with the principal themes, the progress of thought, and the theological terminology of the Bible; and to study the unity of the Old and New Testaments and the continuity of biblical religion. Three hours weekly throughout the year. Seniors.

32. Biblical Theology. For qualified students who do not take Biblical Theology #31, a special section studies biblical theology stressing the original languages. Six hours weekly throughout the year.

Old Testament Elective Courses

51. Seminar in Israelite Culture. Investigation of special problems in the social and cultural history of Israel. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

52. Old Testament Theology. God's action in history and Israel's response in faith are the main themes of this course. Key theological terms are analyzed: covenant, election, salvation, etc. Recent trends in this field are evaluated through a survey of current literature. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

53. Advanced Exegesis of the Old Testament. A continuation of Course No. 4. Special attention is given to the exegesis and analysis of difficult passages in the Old Testament. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

61. Elements of Arabic. A beginner's course in Arabic grammar is offered to students interested in advanced Semitic studies or those looking toward mission work in lands where a thorough knowledge of Arabic is essential. Elective.

62. Elements of Canaanite Cuneiform. A beginner's course in Ugaritic. Elective.

63. Elements of Accadian. A beginner's course in Assyro-Babylonian. Elective.

64. Elements of North West Semitic. Decipherment, translation, and analysis of early Phoenician, Moabite, Hebrew, and Aramaic inscriptions, and investigation of their bearing on Old Testament studies. Elective.

70. Biblical Apocalyptic. A careful study of the Apocalyptic elements in the Old Testament, with special reference to the Book of Daniel. After a brief investigation of the main features of the extra-canonical apocalypses, the Book of Revelation is examined in detail. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

71. The Intertestamental Period. A study of the history and literature of Judaism in the period between the Old and New Testaments. The Apocrypha and Pseudepigrapha are treated along with the sectarian scrolls dating from the Maccabean age. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

72. Reading in the Qumran (Dead Sea) Scrolls. Selected passages from the Essene documents dating from the last pre-Christian centuries. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

73. Judaism and Islam. Besides Christianity, these are the other great monotheistic religions of the Book. This course deals with the history and tenets of Judaism and Islam, with special attention to their relationship with each other and Christianity, and their significance for the life and thought of the Church today. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

100. Language of the New Testament. Background lectures on Koine Greek. A rapid survey of the structure of the language with emphasis on the most frequent forms. Inductive reading in St. Mark's Gospel. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required. (1956-1957)

120b. New Testament Study. Exegetical study of the Epistle to the Galatians, using both Greek and English texts. A formal exegesis of an assigned passage from another Pauline epistle is required of each student. Three hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required of all students not taking course 120a. (1956-1957)

120c. New Testament Study. Exegetical study of the Epistle to the Galatians, emphasizing the Greek text. Collateral study in the standard commentaries and aids. Each student also prepares formal exegesis of an assigned passage. Three hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required for students taking Course 120a. (1956-1957)

123. New Testament Theology. A study of the principal doctrines set forth in the New Testament with attention to the contributions of the several New Testament books. Some note will be made of the modern literature of New Testament theology and attendant problems. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required. (1956-1957)

New Testament Elective Courses

121. Life of Christ. A study of the main events and their significance of the life of Jesus. Critical examination of the four Gospels and their relationship. The principal text book is Major, Manson, Wright, The Mission and Message of Jesus. Two hours weekly. Seniors and graduates.

Ecclesiastical History and History of Doctrine

201. General Church History. The period of the early Church, with an introduction to the Medieval Era. Three hours weekly, throughout the year. Juniors. Required.

202. General Church History. The Medieval Era, the Reformation, and the Modern Era with introduction to American Church History. Two hours weekly, throughout the year. Middlers. Required.

203. Ecumenics. An intensive study of the history, problems, and factors related to or involved in the more modern efforts to attain greater visible unity in the Christian Church. Local and world-wide ecumenical movements will be examined and appraised. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Open to post-graduates and qualified pastors.

211. The Expansion of Christianity. The history of Christianity's extension with particular reference to the nineteenth and twentieth centuries. This course will include a brief survey of the more significant movements within modern Christianity causing the retreat or the advance of the Church of Christ. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

212. American Church History. This study opens with a survey of European Church History with reference to the beginnings of the Church in the Americas. While consideration is given to the rise and progress of Christianity in both the Americas, particular attention will be paid the history of the churches within the United States. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

213. Survey of Modern Tendencies. This course consists of an historical critical examination and appraisal of the major tendencies in Christendom since about 1750. Designed for advanced students and for qualified pastors who desire to make a thorough-going survey under guidance. Two hours, throughout the year. Elective.

214. Christian Biography. A lecture, research course providing for the student the inspiration and information always desired but for which time has never been given. Consideration will be especially given to the key personalities of all the eras. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

215. History of the Reformed Churches Holding the Presbyterian System. A special research course with a written thesis. From time to time, those electing this course will meet in conference with Professor Slosser for discussion, assigned readings, and reports. There will be no regular meetings of the class. The thesis must be designed to show a mastery of the subject. Elective. Open to all students. Consult Dr. Slosser.

216. Special Research Theses. Senior and post-graduate students may, by a special arrangement with the professor, undertake to write a thesis or monograph upon some subject of Church History which has not yet been made a matter of easily available historical record. This would include the history of a presbytery, synod, conference, diocese, or of the church life of a particular section. The amount of credit given will depend upon the nature of the task undertaken and completed satisfactorily. Open to seniors and post-graduates, whether resident or non-resident. Elective. Consult Dr. Slosser.

217. Philosophies of History. An intensive lecture and textbook course in which will be considered the various philosophies of history as they have appeared in history. Special attention will be given to those philosophies that are predominantly materialistic, economical, geographical, psychological, dispensational, and theological. Such authors as Augustine, Hegel, Marx, Spengler, Sorokin, Berdyaev, du Nouy, A. J. Toynbee, together with Biblical writers will be considered. Two hours weekly throughout the year. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

218. History of Christian Education. A lecture and textbook study of the methods and principles of religious education in Biblical times and in the centuries of the Christian era. This course is designed to furnish a background and foundation for the modern programs of religious education in Church Schools and in Week-Day Religious Schools, as well as in all Christian educational institutions. Two hours weekly, one semester. Seniors and graduates. Elective.

219. Seminar in Church Unity. A seminar in this field will vary as to the approach in accordance with the particular wishes of the students enrolled, or the most pressing demands in the field of church unity. Such approaches, for example, as factors other than theological which tend to divisions and which, if removed, would accomplish greater visible unity, is one field for special investigation. Other fields such as the varying doctrines of the church, the varying theories as to scripture usage, and differences as to the more efficient forms of church government, may be made subjects for special investigation. Two hours weekly, one semester. Elective.

220. Eschatology in History. This course consists in an examination of the doctrines relative to future events as found in the Bible and in various periods and with various church denominations in history. Millennialism will receive special attention. A textbook and lecture course. Two hours, one semester. Elective.

221. Christian Literature. A reading course with weekly two-hour lectures on great Christian writings, early church and patristic, medieval, and modern national literatures. In addition to the reading, all of which may be by English translation, written criticisms will be required. Elective. Seniors and graduates. Dr. McCloy.

717. The Protestant Approach to the Sects. A study of religious movements within the United States, like Mormonism, Christian Science, Swedenborgianism, and the Jehovah's Witnesses; and the message and strategy of the Church in relation to them. Elective. Dr. Clyde.

211. The Expansion of Christianity (see page 31).

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to one thousand dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 85 per cent. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for 1956-1957 is I Peter 4: and for 1957-1958 I John 1.

4. In September, 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for 1956-1957 Genesis 4:7; and for 1957-1958 Daniel 9:25-27.

5. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shady-side Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October, 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. On November 17, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved and accepted the creation of a scholarship fund by Seminary President Clifford E. Barbour as a memorial to his mother, to be known as "The Jennie Rigg Barbour Memorial Prize." This prize, paying four hundred dollars annually, is to be assigned to that member of the graduating class who has taken his full course of instruction in this institution and who has achieved the second highest academic rank of his class, if in the judgment of the faculty he is worthy in all other respects. It is hoped that the student will use this income for further study either within an academic institution or by the enlargement of his own library.

8. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester. Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Dean by not later than the first week of classes their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination. The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

Latin—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

Classical Greek—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

French—Translation of French into English and English into French

Philosophy—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

History—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A.D. 476; (c) Medieval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

Other Subjects on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

9. In May, 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

10. In July, 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:"

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

HISTORICAL SKETCH

At the point where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio, the first settlement of what was ultimately the City of Pittsburgh arose soon after 1758. In the great migration of peoples to the West, it served as the natural gateway for travelers by boat or by wagon. Numerous colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians came to the Western Pennsylvania counties bordering these waterways and established farm homes and churches. Others, later, joined the ever-rolling procession to the plains of the Mississippi and beyond.

Wherever Presbyterians went they carried a demand for education. Piety and learning were never separated; and the crowning glory of all education was the study of theology. Throughout this area schools and academies were in close association with the Presbyterian churches. Three of them, namely, Amity and Prosperity under Thaddeus Dodd, Upper Buffalo under Joseph Smith, and the Chartiers Church under John McMillan, gave instruction in theology to a number of young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Dodd held classes at Amity as early as 1781. There is a direct line of descent from these pioneer schools to the Western Theological Seminary.

During the first quarter of the nineteenth century, the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware of the need of specialized, professional training for ministerial candidates beyond the college level, and, further, of the value of such training within a Christian community of fellow students. Princeton Theological Seminary was established in 1813, and some twelve years later the General Assembly founded the Western Theological Seminary in a region that faced the continually receding horizon of the West.

The Seminary opened in 1827 with four students and two instructors. The first classes were held in the session room of the First Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh. A few years later a four story building was completed on the high ridge overlooking the three rivers. Herein were dormitories for students, apartments for teachers and a fine circular gallery for the newly collected library. This building served the school until it was destroyed by fire in 1854. Two new edifices were constructed on Ridge Avenue, Seminary Hall (now replaced by Herron Hall and Swift Hall) and Beatty Hall (now replaced by Memorial Hall.). Lowrie Hall, formerly the library, was built in the eighteen seventies.

The missionary interest has ever been strong. Elisha P. Swift, one of the first instructors, was the executive secretary of the original Western Foreign Missionary Society which later became the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian Church. The first missionaries to India, John C. Lowrie and William Reed, were members of the class of 1829.

The main function of the Western Theological Seminary has been the training of ministers for the pastorate, whether urban or rural. The abiding concern of both its faculty and the administrative officers has been the preparing of young men for this glorious task. Although a number of our candidates throughout a century and a quarter have taken up the more specialized ministry of foreign missionary or college teaching, the greatest number enter the pastorate.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by the President, Vice-President, Dean and Business Manager. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. The administrative officers, together with a representative of the Board of Trustees, are members of the Council on Theological Education of the Presbyterian Church. The Seminary is a member in good standing of the American Association of Theological Schools and is fully accredited by that body.

The Western Theological Seminary has represented the main stream of Presbyterian thought and has been free of extremes in both theology and practice; it has been warmly hospitable to students from all the major evangelical bodies.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, are located the offices of the Dean.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall where resident students, except those living in apartments, are required to take their meals. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

Marvin Social Hall, located in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for informal conferences and social gatherings.

The Gymnasium may be used for basketball, volley ball and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is provided by the athletic committee of the student Presbytery. Use of the Gymnasium by groups other than students is under the supervision of the Administrative officers.

Lowrie Hall is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children. Rentals vary according to the size of the apartment (see page 23). Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be provided by each family.

808 Ridge Avenue is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road. This four-story structure, the gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company, contains the offices of the President, Vice-President, members of the Faculty, Business Manager, Admissions Director, two large lecture halls and the student lounge. On the third floor are seven single rooms for students and the apartment of the Instructor-in-Residence, The Rev. William A. Nicholson, and Mrs. Nicholson.

A coffee shop is available for the convenience of the students.

LIBRARY

The library of seventy thousand volumes is one of the glories of the Western Seminary. It began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by the Rev. Allen Ditchfield Campbell and has received notable additions from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields, and N. W. Conkling funds, and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete of its kind in this country, is available to students of English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library is housed in Swift Hall. It consists of a spacious reading room, a browsing room, the librarian's office, a study room for the faculty and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The library subscribes to over one hundred periodicals representing the main denominational divisions in America and offering a broad survey of theological thought both here and in Europe.

The Warrington Room in addition to housing the great hymn collection also serves as a listening studio for recorded music. The Student Choir has provided a record player and a library of recorded religious music including all the major choral oratorios and liturgical selections. The room is furnished to provide a comfortable and pleasant atmosphere for the enjoyment of good music.

ADVANTAGES OF PITTSBURGH

The city of Pittsburgh, located where the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers merge to form the Ohio, is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality and every profession and skill. Consequently, students have an excellent opportunity to observe industrial and labor conditions.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Chatham College are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and various Carnegie free libraries, together with the great university and college libraries, offer their vast resources to all students. The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, the various concert series, the choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. Erected in 1939 at a cost of one and one-half million dollars, it furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations are represented in the Pittsburgh area and afford the students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in both its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the third largest presbytery in the Presbyterian Church. Within its bounds are one hundred and thirty-five churches with a total membership of eighty thousand and one hundred and thirty-six. Of these, about twenty have more than a thousand members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

SENIOR WORSHIP SERVICE

Each candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree in his Senior year is required to conduct a service of public worship, with sermon, attended by the faculty, student body, and friends. This is an essential part of the spiritual life of the Seminary and is to be conducted in a manner which preserves the best values and noblest traditions of worship. Conferences with the faculty precede and follow each service.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

STUDENT PRESBYTERY

The students of the Seminary are organized as a Student Presbytery in accordance with the Presbyterian system of government. Its officers are: Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer. The standing committees are: Faith and Life, Athletic, Social Education and Action, Social, Inter-Seminary, Student-Faculty Relations, Conference. The professors are ex officio members of the Student Presbytery.

STUDENT DEVOTIONAL LIFE

Students who are not engaged in supply preaching are expected to relate themselves to one of the churches of the community and to attend public worship.

Regular morning chapel services are held each day, Tuesday through Friday, under the leadership of the faculty and the Middler and Senior students. The entire school gathers weekly for a conference conducted by invited speakers who are leaders in fields of interest to the ministry. A list of the speakers is given on page 49.

In addition to these scheduled services, the Christian Life Committee of the Student Presbytery seeks to develop both the private and the corporate prayer life of the students. The committee supervises a brief period of devotions in the dining hall at the evening meal, and additional voluntary exercises. One day of each year is set apart as the Seminary Day of Prayer. An outstanding leader in American religious life is invited to present a theme for meditation and prayer. Students are expected to attend all services.

THE CHOIR

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed of students, students' wives, and members of the staff, its make-up depending on the number and the abilities of those in attendance at the Seminary in any given year. Programs are given in the chapel and in the churches of the district at various times.

RECREATIONAL OPPORTUNITIES

A good gymnasium, equipped with shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y. M. C. A. provides courtesy memberships, with the privilege of the swimming pool, to Seminary students. Tennis courts in the park facing the Seminary and the athletic field of the Allegheny High School are available to the students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Social gatherings are held throughout the year. These provide occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association holds regular meetings under the sponsorship of faculty wives and contributes appreciably to the social life of the Seminary.

PRE-SEMINARY COLLEGE CURRICULUM

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

English—literature, composition, speech and related studies. At least 6 semesters.

History—ancient, modern European, and American. At least 3 semesters.

Philosophy—orientation in history, content and method. At least 3 semesters.

Natural sciences—preferably physics, chemistry and biology. At least 2 semesters.

Social sciences—psychology, sociology, economics, political science and education. At least 6 semesters, including at least 1 semester of psychology.

Foreign languages—one or more of the following linguistic avenues to man's thought and tools of scholarly research: Latin, Greek, Hebrew, German, French. Students who anticipate post-graduate studies are urged to undertake these disciplines early in their training as opportunity offers. At least 4 semesters.

Religion—a thorough knowledge of the content of the Bible as indispensable, together with an introduction to the major religious traditions and theological problems in the context of the principal aspects of human culture outlined above. The pre-seminary student may well seek counsel of the seminary of his choice in order most profitably to use the resources of his college. At least 3 semesters.

Of the various possible areas of concentration, where areas of concentration are required, English, philosophy and history are regarded as the most desirable.

THE FUNCTION OF PRE-SEMINARY STUDIES

College courses prior to theological seminary should provide the cultural and intellectual foundations essential to an effective theological education. They should issue in at least three broad kinds of attainment.

1. The college work of a pre-seminary student should result in the ability to use certain tools of the educated man:

(a) The ability to write and speak English clearly and correctly. English composition should have this as a specific purpose, but this purpose should also be cultivated in all written work.

(b) The ability to think clearly. In some persons this ability is cultivated through courses in philosophy or specifically in logic. In others it is cultivated by the use of scientific method, or by dealing with critical problems in connection with literary and historical documents.

(c) The ability to read at least one foreign language and in some circumstances more than one.

2. The college work of a pre-seminary student should result in increased understanding of the world in which he lives:

(a) The world of men and ideas. This includes knowledge of English literature, philosophy and psychology.

(b) The world of nature. This is provided by knowledge of the natural sciences, including laboratory work.

(c) The world of human affairs. This is aided by knowledge of history and the social sciences.

3. The college work of the pre-seminary student should result in a sense of achievement:

(a) The degree of his mastery of his field of study is more important than the credits and grades which he accumulates.

(b) The sense of achievement may be encouraged through academic concentration, or through "honors" work, or through other plans for increasingly independent work with as much initiative on the student's part as he is able to use with profit.

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS ENTRANCE PROCEDURES

Western Theological Seminary offers courses in theology to those preparing for the Christian ministry or related fields of service, and to those who desire a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith. Women are admitted as full-time or part-time students on the same basis as men. Members of the student body fall into several classifications: auditors, special, graduate and undergraduate.

Auditors are those who are practicing, ordained clergymen without a college degree; or those who hold a college degree, but do not wish to study for credit. Auditors of the first type must present a letter of certification from the ecclesiastical body to which they are responsible; those of the second type must present a transcript of college work.

Special students are those who are qualified to be enrolled for academic credit, but who are not regularly enrolled in a program leading to a degree and, therefore, not recognized as in regular candidacy. Special students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, college transcript, letters from the home pastor and college administration, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Auditing and Special students may not register for post-graduate courses without permission of the Dean and the professor in charge.

Graduate students are those who hold college and seminary degrees, enrolled in a degree or non-degree program, either full time or part time. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, seminary transcript, letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, and a personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary.

Undergraduate students are those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See Requirements for Admission that follow.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

A formal application, to be found at the back of the catalogue, must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Seminary. This must be supported by the following credentials:

Application Fee

A check or money order for ten dollars must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. The application fee is not returnable if the application is withdrawn. It is refunded if the applicant is rejected.

Photograph

College Transcript

A record of the applicant's college work to date is required at the time the application is submitted. Upon completion of his college work, the applicant must submit a final transcript showing the date of graduation and the degree received. The applicant must be a graduate of an accredited college or university.

Letters of Recommendation

A letter must be submitted from the applicant's home pastor, certifying as to the applicant's character, abilities, and general aptitudes for the Christian ministry.

A letter must be submitted from the ecclesiastical body in authority over the applicant's church, certifying that the applicant has been approved by the body as a candidate for the gospel ministry. Applicants who have not been officially received under the care of their respective ecclesiastical authorities at the time of application must arrange for this letter to be submitted immediately after such formal action has been taken.

A letter must be submitted from the Dean of the college, certifying as to the applicant's capacities to pursue graduate study.

A letter of recommendation from a person other than a relative, pastor or college official who can speak of character, personality and accomplishments.

Personal Interview

A personal interview with the Dean of the Seminary is highly desirable. Where this is not possible, a letter giving the applicant's educational, family, and religious background, as well as his views of and plans for the Christian ministry, is required.

Certificate of Health

Personality and Aptitude Tests

In conformity with the recommendation of the American Association of Theological Schools, every undergraduate student is required to submit to a series of tests for aptitudes, personality, and intelligence, under the direction of Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor with the Department of Christian Education. Those who have not taken them before entering Seminary will do so in the course of the orientation program.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of work taken at the seminary and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or other administrative official.

UNDERGRADUATE STUDIES

MATRICULATION

As he begins his seminary study, each student is expected to take the Matriculation Pledge, which has been subscribed to by all entering students since 1829, as follows:

"Deeply impressed with a sense of the need of improving in knowledge, prudence, and piety in my preparation for the gospel ministry, I solemnly promise, in reliance on divine grace, that I will faithfully and diligently attend to all the instructions of this Seminary, and that I will conscientiously and vigilantly observe all the rules and regulations specified in the Plan for its instruction and government, so far as the same relate to the students; and that I will obey all the lawful requisitions and readily yield to all the wholesome admonitions of the Professors and Directors of the Seminary while I shall continue as a member of it."

ACADEMIC STANDARDS

A student must maintain a C average (1 quality point) in order to carry a full schedule of courses.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	90% to 100%3	quality points
B	80% to 89%2	" "
C	70% to 79%1	quality point
D	60% to 69%0	" "
F	Failure-1	" "
I	Incomplete-1	" " (until work is completed.)

Examinations are given in most courses throughout the period of the semester, with final examinations being given before the semester's close. A student who fails an examination is permitted to take a re-examination. A second failure may result in the loss of the student's class standing or in his being classified as a partial student. A fee will be charged for an examination given at a later date when a student's absence from the regular examination was unexcused.

FIELD WORK

While field work is voluntary it is an invaluable part of theological education. The location of Western Seminary in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world, and in the heart of the united church, affords unusual field work opportunities. Positions in churches of various sizes, and in inner-city, suburban and rural situations, are offered to Western students each year. Although the final decision always rests with the church or organization, the field work department makes every effort to place each student who requests an assignment. The attempt is also made to match student capacity with field work opportunity, in order to provide the kind of training and experience most suited to the needs and interests of the individual student.

The faculty regards field work as an integral part of the educational process, and coordinates it with the academic program. In the usual position, where the student does not assume the primary responsibility for a church and works in the field only on Sundays, no adjustment of the academic program is required. If the student assumes principal responsibility for a church, or serves as a student pastor, his program is adjusted as follows: (1) a maximum of thirteen hours each semester during the first and second years; and (2) a maximum of sixteen hours each semester during the third year. The curriculum and class schedule are organized to permit these adjustments. This enables the student who assumes the principal responsibility for a church during his entire seminary education to balance the demands of his academic schedule, and his field work, by taking a four year program. (See pp. 29-30.)

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE B. D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 100 semester hours' work.*

* Except for students in double-honors program—see p. 28.

2. Presentation of a thesis.
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.
4. Satisfactory conducting of a complete service of worship in the Seminary chapel with students and faculty in attendance.

GRADUATE STUDIES

MASTER OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The applicant must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and a theological degree from a seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. In addition to the regular application required of all students, a written application for candidacy for the degree of Master of Theology must be presented to the faculty, indicating the major and minor fields in which the applicant wishes to pursue his studies.
3. A student must be in residence at this seminary for a minimum of one academic year following his acceptance as a candidate, and must complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours of regular curriculum work.
4. The fields of study are defined as follows: (1) The Bible. (2) Church History and History of Doctrine. (3) Theology, Philosophy of Religion and Ethics. (4) Pastoral Theology and Christian Education. The candidate must take a minimum of twelve semester hours in his major field, and six semester hours in his minor field. Courses in the other fields may be substituted with the permission of the Committee on Graduate Studies. Upon being accepted as a candidate, a program of study for the entire course shall be submitted to the Committee on Graduate Studies for approval.
5. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by his major professor. The thesis must be submitted by April 1 of the year in which the degree is to be received.
6. The candidate must pass a reading examination in German or French. This examination must be passed satisfactorily before the thesis subject may be approved.

7. The candidate must pass comprehensive written examinations in his major and minor fields, and oral examination on his thesis conducted by a committee appointed by the faculty.

DOCTOR OF THEOLOGY

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and a theological degree from a seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.
2. The candidate must pass qualifying examinations in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; and theology, including philosophy of religion and ethics. Qualifying examinations may also be required in Christian education and practical theology, including homiletics. For those who will major in the Theological or Historical fields a general working knowledge of the Biblical language so as to exhibit competence in exegesis, rather than a reading knowledge, is required. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.
3. The candidate must select one of two fields of study, the Biblical or the Theological and Historical as a major and the other as a minor and, with the advice of the professor in the chosen major field, submit to the Committee on Graduate Studies for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. The minor will consist of such studies as the committee deems necessary for competency in the field. The candidate must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the Committee on Graduate Studies.
4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations covering both major and minor fields, followed by oral examinations conducted by the Committee on Graduate Studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.
5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages other than his native tongue. These examinations must be passed satisfactorily before research for the dissertation is begun.

6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation which gives satisfactory evidence of technical competence and adds to or modifies previous knowledge in his major field.
7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination on the dissertation conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities, and who wish to transfer to this seminary, must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the Committee on Curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the Committee on Graduate Studies of the faculty.

MASTER'S DEGREES IN RELIGIOUS EDUCATION AT THE UNIVERSITY OF PITTSBURGH

The churches are offering more opportunities for professionally trained men and women to serve as directors of Christian education and pastor's assistants than there are qualified persons to accept them.

The regular curriculum studies leading to the B.D. degree is an excellent preparation for this work, including as it does, various required and elective courses in Christian Education and practical theology. However, Western Theological Seminary cooperates with the University of Pittsburgh in a course of studies whereby college graduates can secure the Master of Education or the Master of Arts degree (with a major in religious education) from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

FEES AND EXPENSES

Fees for one year's residence:

Twelve furnished apartments.....$35—$40 monthly

Lowrie Hall (for married couples and small families)

Seven furnished apartments.....$40—$50 monthly

All apartment rents are payable monthly in advance. Applications for apartments should be made as early as possible, to establish priority.

All bills are payable in advance on the opening day of each semester. No deductions will be allowed for absence from individual meals.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before registering for a new semester and before graduation or the release of official transcripts.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE

Financial assistance is available from the following sources:

1. Presbyterian students should apply for aid, through their Presbyteries, to the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. The amounts thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.
2. The Seminary has a scholarship fund from which students may receive aid. Prospective students desiring aid from this fund should correspond with the president. The distribution is made in three installments: October 1, December 1, and March 1.
3. Small amounts may be borrowed from the Seminary at a low rate of interest, for emergency needs.
4. When necessary, arrangements for a payment plan to cover a semester's expenses may be made at the Business Office.

WORK SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

A unique Work Scholarship Program was recently instituted at Western whereby a student may earn a large percentage of his fees. Under this program, students may apply for one of a variety of assignments within the Seminary and receive compensation commensurate with the duties performed.

Work Scholarships that are available include: 20 Choir Members, 4 Waiters, one each of Chapel Assistant, Choir Manager, Dormitory Clerk, Head Waiter, Library Assistant, Maintenance Assistant, Organist, Student Lounge Attendant, "Western Watch" Assistant and several Special Assignments.

Assignments are made on the basis of need and qualifications and upon recommendation of the President and approval of the Faculty. Application for a Work Scholarship is made to the President prior to the beginning of each semester. Payment is made by check at the end of each semester.

THE REGULAR CURRICULUM

The regular curriculum of the Seminary provides a thorough course of study for the candidate for the ministry. It consists of a required core extending into the middle year, supplemented by elective choices during the middle and senior years. The Bible is studied thoroughly both in its original languages and in translation; in the fields of theology, philosophy of religion, ethics, church history and the practical disciplines there is abundant reading in both sources and the most competent secondary literature.

THE HONORS CURRICULA

At the end of the Junior year, a student may apply for admission to one or both of the honors curricula. Permission is granted on the basis of the first year's academic record, student motivation, and the applicant's freedom to devote the necessary time to the program of study. The honors curricula provide courses of study in which sources are read in the original languages: in the Biblical field, the honors course provides advanced instruction in the Biblical tongues and a sequence of courses that utilize these languages; in the field of historical theology, honors students master one or more of the modern languages in order to read theological and historical literature in each of the main epochs of church history. The student who elects one of the honors curricula ordinarily does so in preparation for the ministry. The election of both honors curricula more logically points toward graduate study. The honors programs afford the abler student an opportunity for concentrated work which nevertheless does not exclude due attention to fields of study outside the curriculum of special emphasis.

111. English Bible.

Studies of the historical books of the Old Testament, using the King James and Revised Standard Versions, with outside readings. Attention is given to the development of study principles, attitudes, and methods. Three hours weekly, first semester, Juniors. Required (see courses 115-118). Mr. Freedman.

112. English Bible.

Continuation of course 111 into the New Testament. Synoptic Gospels and Acts. Three hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required (see courses 115-118). Mr. Orr.

113. Biblical Language.

A course designed to lead students to an appreciation of Hebrew and Greek as the languages of biblical revelation. The distinctive elements of biblical Hebrew and Greek are surveyed in the areas of word formation, inflection, and syntax. Included is a brief treatment of key biblical concepts as illuminated by studies of them in their original contexts. Stress is placed on increasing facility in the use of simple linguistic tools, particularly the lexicon and concordance. Opportunity will be given for students with unusual ability to advance into intensive linguistic study. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required (see courses 115-118). Mr. Freedman and Mr. Walther.

114. Biblical Language.

115. Old Testament Hebrew.

A special course for students who have had satisfactory college instruction in Greek. The Hebrew language is introduced with a view to developing as rapidly as possible a reading facility in the Old Testament books. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required for students not taking courses 111-114. Mr. Hills.

116. Old Testament Hebrew.

117. New Testament Greek.

A special course for students who have had satisfactory college instruction in Greek. The Synoptic Gospels and Acts are read to develop familiarity with Koine Greek and to increase facility in translation. Three hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required of students not taking courses 111-114. Mr. Orr.

118. New Testament Greek.

121. Biblical Introduction (Old Testament).

The course begins with a consideration of the text, versions, and canon of the Old Testament followed by a brief survey of the history of criticism. Then the major literary units are treated more in detail with the main emphasis on the historical books. Outside reading in modern critical works. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required (see courses 125-128). Mr. Hills.

122. Biblical Introduction (New Testament).

Beginning with a survey of the historical and religious background of the New Testament, each New Testament book will be subjected to literary and critical study. Methods of textual criticism will be examined, and the development of the canon will be noted. Finally, the transmission and translation of the text will be studied including the history of the English Bible. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required (see courses 125-128). Mr. Walther.

123. Biblical Exegesis (New Testament).

The methods and materials of exegesis are introduced leading to a detailed study of Pauline Epistles. Exercises in formal, written exegesis are assigned. The original text and critical commentaries are stressed. Three hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required (see courses 125-128). Mr. Orr.

124. Biblical Exegesis (Old Testament).

H125. Hebrew Exegesis.

Selected books and passages of the Old Testament prophets will be read in the original with special attention to exegetical detail. Exercise in formal, written exegesis will be required and may be prepared in conjunction with courses 127 and 128. Additional reading in Old Testament Introduction will be assigned. Three hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required in equivalence of courses 121 and 124. Prerequisite: courses 115 and 116. Honors course. Mr. Hills.

H126. Hebrew Exegesis.

Continuation of course H125. Three hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required in equivalence of courses 121 and 124. Prerequisite: courses 115 and 116. Honors course. Mr. Hills.

H127. Greek Exegesis.

Pauline Epistles will be read in the original text with special attention to exegetical detail. Exercise in formal, written exegesis will be required and may be prepared in conjunction with courses 125 and 126. Additional reading in New Testament Introduction will be assigned. Three hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required in equivalence of courses 122 and 123. Prerequisite: courses 117 and 118. Honors course. Mr. Walther.

H128. Greek Exegesis.

Continuation of course H127. Three hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required in equivalence of courses 122 and 123. Prerequisite: courses 117 and 118. Honors course. Mr. Walther.

131. Biblical Theology (New Testament).

A course designed to acquaint students with the principal themes, the progress of thought, and the theological terminology of the Bible; and, together with course 132, to study the unity of the Old and New Testaments and the continuity of biblical religion. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required (see courses 135-138). Mr. Orr.

132. Biblical Theology (Old Testament).

Continuation of course 131. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required (see courses 135-138). Mr. Hills.

* Course numbers with the letter "H" are in the honors program.

H135. Old Testament Theology.

Selected Old Testament material will be read in the original text with special attention to theological detail. Written word studies will be assigned. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required of students not taking course 132. Prerequisite: courses H125 and H126. Honors course. Mr. Freedman.

H136. Old Testament Theology.

Continuation of course H135. In addition to readings in the Hebrew text, some attention will be given to the modern literature of Old Testament Theology. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required of students not taking course 132. Prerequisite: courses H125 and H126. Honors course. Mr. Freedman.

H137. New Testament Theology.

Selected New Testament books will be read in the original text with special attention to theological detail. In addition to readings in the Greek text, some attention will be given to the modern literature of New Testament Theology. Three hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required of students not taking course 131. Prerequisite: courses H127 and H128. Honors course. Mr. Walther.

H138. New Testament Theology.

Continuation of course H137. Essays on key words and concepts will be assigned. Three hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required of students not taking course 132. Prerequisite: courses H127 and H128. Honors course. Mr. Orr.

141. Seminar in Israelite Religion.

Investigation of special problems in the social and cultural history of Israel. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers, Seniors, and Graduates. Elective. Mr. Freedman. Offered in 1958-59.

142. Form-critical Problems in the Old Testament.

Study of the methods of form- and tradition-criticism and their detailed application to selected passages. Two hours weekly, second semester. Seniors and Graduates. Elective. Mr. Hills. Offered in 1959-60.

151. Old Testament Philology.

Introduction to the formal structure of the Hebrew language (phonetics, morphology, syntax) with special attention to its historical development and relation to other Semitic languages. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers, Seniors, and Graduates. Elective. Mr. Hills. Offered in 1958-59.

152. Ancient Hebrew Poetry.

Readings in the poems of the Pentateuch and early Psalms with emphasis on ancient Hebrew meter, style, orthography and vocabulary, and analysis of theological motifs and liturgical orientation. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers, Seniors, and Graduates. Elective. Mr. Freedman. Offered in 1958-59.

153. Readings in the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Selected passages (in the original Hebrew) from the newly-discovered Qumran scrolls dating from 200 B. C. to 70 A. D. Two hours weekly, first semester. Elective. Prerequisite: course 116. Mr. Hills. Offered in 1959-60.

162. Introduction to the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Survey of the scrolls from the Dead Sea area, particularly Qumran. Archaeological background, analysis of contents, significance for the text, history, and theology of the Old and New Testaments. Two hours weekly, second semester. Elective. Mr. Hills. Offered in 1958-59.

166. Seminar on the Greek Old Testament.

Introduction to the Greek translation of the Old Testament and the problems of the text. Rapid reading of selected books and passages in the Septuagint. Two hours weekly, second semester. Offered to students in the honors curricula and to qualified graduate students. Mr. Orr. Offered in 1959-60.

171. Form Criticism and the Synoptic Problem.

The purposes and techniques of Formgeschichte will be critically examined and its contributions illustrated and assessed. Other current phases of the Synoptic Problem will be discussed and representative literature read. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers, Seniors, and Graduates. Elective. Mr. Walther. Offered in 1958-59.

172. New Testament Christology.

This course will survey the beliefs about Jesus as Messiah, Son of Man, Son of God, and his work as revealer of the Father, inaugurator of the Kingdom, and savior of the human race. Two hours weekly, second semester. Elective. Mr. Orr. Offered in 1958-59.

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to one thousand dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 85 per cent. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for 1957-1958 I John 1: and for 1958-1959 Romans 14:1-23.

4. In September, 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for 1957-1958 Daniel 9:25-27; and for 1958-1959 Psalm 110.

5. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shady-side Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October, 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. On November 17, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved and accepted the creation of a scholarship fund by Seminary President Clifford E. Barbour as a memorial to his mother, to be known as "The Jennie Rigg Barbour Memorial Prize." This prize, paying four hundred dollars annually, is to be assigned to that member of the graduating class who has taken his full course of instruction in this institution and who has achieved the second highest academic rank of his class, if in the judgment of the faculty he is worthy in all other respects. It is hoped that the student will use this income for further study either within an academic institution or by the enlargement of his own library.

8. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester. Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Dean by not later than the first week of classes their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination. The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

Latin—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

Classical Greek—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

Hebrew—Hebrew grammar, translation of Hebrew, Hebrew composition

German—Translation of German into English and English into German

French—Translation of French into English and English into French

Philosophy—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

History—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A.D. 476; (c) Medieval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

Other Subjects on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

9. In May, 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

10. In July, 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following:"

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.

CATALOGUE

The Boards of Directors of Western and Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminaries have agreed that the United Presbyterian Church in the United States of America should develop a theological foundation or university of theology in Pittsburgh. A special committee has been appointed to study the Pittsburgh situation in light of this proposed foundation or university. The committee is composed of Dr. Hermann N. Morse, Dr. Wilson M. Compton and Dr. Liston D. Pope, with Dr. Charles E. Taylor as special consultant. As Dr. Theophilus Taylor, the Moderator of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, has recently written: "Our one common aim should be to provide for our Church a great theological educational center second to none. This center should not only produce an ever-increasing supply of men and women adequately trained to serve mankind and the Church in this generation, but should make articulate and self-commanding our Reformed understanding of the Christian Faith to an increasingly skeptical age."

THIS IS WESTERN . . . FROM THESE ROOTS IT GREW

Pittsburgh was founded in 1758 where the Allegheny and the Monongahela Rivers join to form the Ohio. Numbered among the early settlements in the adjacent region were the colonies of Scotch-Irish Presbyterians.

Piety and learning have never been separated in Presbyterian tradition. To Presbyterians the crown of all learning has always been systematic theology based upon biblical studies. Quite naturally, then, as schools and academies were set up among the raw settlements of the frontier, there was close association between the new schools and the pioneer churches.

Three of these churches, Amity and Prosperity, Upper Buffalo, and Chartiers, gave instruction in theology to young men destined for the ministry. Dr. Thaddeus Dodd at Amity Church held classes as early as 1781. Western Theological Seminary is proud to trace a direct line of descent from these beginnings.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church became increasingly aware as the 19th century dawned of the need to give specialized professional training beyond the college level to ministerial candidates. Princeton Theological Seminary was founded in 1813. Only 12 years later the General Assembly founded Western Theological Seminary to serve the frontier.

Four students and two instructors met in 1827 in the Session Room of the First Presbyterian Church in Pittsburgh. These were the first classes. A few years later the seminary erected a four story building on the high ridge overlooking the junction of the rivers. Therein were dormitories for students and a fine circular gallery to house the newly collected library. This building served until it was destroyed by fire in 1854.

It was replaced by two new buildings on Ridge Avenue, Seminary Hall (now superseded by Herron Hall and Swift Hall) and Beatty Hall (on whose site Memorial Hall now stands). Lowrie Hall, formerly the library, was built in the eighteen-seventies.

The main function of Western Theological Seminary has always been the training of ministers for the pastorate, urban and rural. Some of our graduates during the past century and a quarter have chosen the specialized ministries of foreign missionary effort and college teaching. But most of them have devoted themselves to the pastorate, their glorious task.

The Seminary is governed by a Board of Trustees and administered by officers chosen by the Board. The entire institution is under control of the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. Full accreditation has been given by the American Association of Theological Schools.

The Western Theological Seminary has, since its founding, been in the mainstream of Presbyterian thought; it has been free of extremes in theology and practice. Withal, Western has always been warmly hospitable to students from all other major evangelical bodies.

THIS IS PITTSBURGH . . . THE RENAISSANCE CITY

The City of Pittsburgh is the workshop of America. Its population includes people of every nationality, profession, and skill.

The cultural and educational life of Pittsburgh is no less rich. The University of Pittsburgh, Carnegie Institute of Technology, Duquesne University, and Chatham College are renowned institutions with excellent faculties and programs. The Carnegie Museum and Carnegie free libraries, the great university and college libraries, offer resources to all students.

The Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Pittsburgh Opera Society, various concert series, and choral societies, present many musical events each season. The Pittsburgh Chapter of the American Guild of Organists is a flourishing organization and stimulates wide interest in the best of church music.

Buhl Planetarium, one of six planetaria in the United States and the most modern in the world, is located three blocks from the Seminary. It furnishes scientific and astronomical exhibits in addition to regular shows displaying configurations of the stars.

Churches of all types are to be found, ranging from the large urban congregation to the small rural or industrial mission. The major historic denominations afford students opportunities for wide acquaintance with contemporary religious life in its worship and its work. Some of the nation's foremost preachers occupy pulpits in the area.

Pittsburgh Presbytery is the largest Presbytery in the United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. Within its bounds are two hundred twenty-eight churches with a total membership of about one hundred thirty thousand. Of these, about half have more than five hundred members each; and mission work is conducted in over twenty different places. Within two hundred miles of Pittsburgh live one-fifth of the United Presbyterians in this country. Located in Pittsburgh also are many churches of other denominations, with which the Seminary maintains cordial relations.

THE REVEREND FREDERICK BRUCE SPEAKMAN, M.A., D.D.

Guest Professor of Homiletics

A native of Oklahoma, Dr. Speakman attended the College of Emporia, where he participated in football and boxing, and was president of his class. A graduate of the University of Oklahoma, he was the ranking member of Phi Beta Kappa, and listed in "Who's Who" in American Colleges in 1940 and 1941. He received a Master's Degree in classical languages from the University of Oklahoma in 1941, and in 1942 attended Harvard University, where he received a Master's Degree in history.

He received his theological training at Princeton Seminary. In 1945 he was awarded the Newberry Fellowship in Graduate Study and the Theology Fellowship given by Princeton Seminary. He was also awarded the Hugh Davies Prize as the outstanding preacher in his graduating class.

He has been a teaching fellow at Princeton Seminary and within the last ten years has received the Doctor of Divinity Degree at Washington and Jefferson College.

Before coming to the Third Presbyterian Church, Pittsburgh, as pastor in 1949, he was pastor of the Central Brick Presbyterian Church, East Orange, New Jersey. He is the author of the book, The Salty Tang, acclaimed by the Saturday Review of Literature as one of the ten best religious books written in America in 1954. Dr. Speakman has been guest preacher at Chautauqua Summer Conference, Massanetta Springs, and such colleges as Wellesley, Wilson, Chatham, Washington and Jefferson, Grove City, Oklahoma University, and Harvard.

WILLIAM FOXWELL ALBRIGHT

A.B., PH.D., LITT.D., D.H.L., TH.D., D., LL.D., D.PHIL.

Guest Professor of Old Testament

Born in Chile as the son of missionaries, Dr. Albright received his undergraduate training at Upper Iowa University. He received his Ph.D. from Johns Hopkins University in 1916, and since that time has received honorary degrees from Upper Iowa University, Yale University, Georgetown University, the University of Dublin, Jewish Theological Seminary, Hebrew Union College, College of Jewish Studies in Chicago, The University of Uppsala in Sweden, Boston College, University of St. Andrews in Scotland, Franklin and Marshall College, Hebrew University in Jerusalem. He has received the Doctor of Theology degree from the University of Utrecht in the Netherlands.

Dr. Albright is currently President of the International Organization of Old Testament Scholars. He is the author of over 800 publications on archeology, Old Testament and oriental subjects. His two outstanding popular works are, The Archeology of Palestine, which has been translated into Hebrew, French, German, and Italian; and From The Stone Age To Christianity, which has also been translated into German, Hebrew, and French.

SEMINARY BUILDINGS

The Seminary buildings are located on Ridge Avenue adjacent to West Park, on the historic North Side of Pittsburgh. This site is easily accessible to all railroad and bus stations and is within walking distance of Point Park, in the heart of the "Golden Triangle."

Herron Hall was named in memory of Dr. Francis Herron, one of Western's founders. Its towers, long a landmark of Pittsburgh, inspired the line in Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr's Alma Mater hymn: "Thy towers are stately sentinels, all vigilant for truth." In Herron Hall, which marks the entrance to the quadrangle, is located a paneled seminar room and classrooms.

Swift Hall bears the name of another of Western's founders, Dr. Elisha P. Swift. This building, forming the rear of the quadrangle, is located across the court from Herron Hall and contains several classrooms, the library, and the chapel with seating capacity of two hundred.

Memorial Hall is a residence hall with modern homelike quarters for students. It is a Y-shaped building of four stories, a design which affords sunlight to every room, since there are no "inside" rooms. The rooms are in suites of three, consisting of a central study and two adjoining bedrooms, completely furnished.

In the north wing of Memorial Hall are twelve fully furnished efficiency apartments for married couples, with six two-room and six three-room apartments. Each apartment has a bath and kitchenette. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be furnished by the occupants. Laundry facilities are available to Memorial Hall residents. Maid service is not provided for apartment occupants.

The Dining Hall is located on the fourth floor of Memorial Hall where resident students, except those living in apartments, are required to take their meals. Those occupying apartments may make arrangements to take regular or occasional meals in the Dining Hall.

Marvin Social Hall, located in the east wing of Memorial Hall, is used by students for informal conferences and social gatherings.

The Gymnasium may be used for basketball, volleyball and other indoor sports. Gymnasium equipment is provided by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery. Use of the Gymnasium by groups other than students is under the supervision of the Administrative officers.

Lowrie Hall is a three-story brick building containing seven completely furnished apartments for couples with children. Rentals vary according to the size of the apartment (see page 13). Laundry facilities are available in the basement of the building, and use is determined by a schedule agreed upon by the residents. Bedding, linens, silverware, china and cooking utensils must be provided by each family.

808 Ridge Avenue is located at the corner of Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road. This four-story structure, the gift of the Pennsylvania Transformer Company, contains the offices of the President, Vice-President, members of the Faculty, Business Manager, Admissions Director, two large lecture halls and the student lounge. On the third floor are seven single rooms for students and the apartment of the Instructor-in-Residence, the Rev. William A. Nicholson and Mrs. Nicholson.

A coffee shop is available for the convenience of the students.

LIBRARY

The library of Western Seminary began with a collection of three thousand books collected in England and Scotland in the early 1830's by the Rev. Allen Ditchfield Campbell. Through the years sizable additions have come from the private libraries of Luther Halsey, I. A. Murray, Samuel J. Wilson, Nathaniel Conkling, William P. Armstrong, and Thomas Mellon, II. Purchases of new books from funds of the Pitcairn-Crabbe Foundation, the Highland Presbyterian Church of Pittsburgh, James L. Shields and N. W. Conkling funds and more recently of the Mary E. Rieck Estate, keep the library abreast of the most up-to-date developments in all phases of religion. The Warrington collection of hymnology, one of the most complete in the country, makes available English and American hymns and hymn tunes.

The library consists of a spacious reading room, the librarian's office, a study room for research and for seminars, and an open stack room with a capacity for one hundred and fifty thousand volumes. The Warrington Room both houses the great hymn collection and serves as a listening studio for recorded music. The Student Choir has provided a record player and a library of recorded religious music including major choral oratorios and liturgical selections. The room is furnished to provide a comfortable and pleasant atmosphere for study and enjoyment of good music.

The library contains over 70,000 volumes and subscribes to over one hundred periodicals encompassing theological thought here and in Europe.

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

Student Presbytery

In accordance with the Presbyterian system of government, the entire undergraduate student body is organized as a Presbytery, whose officers are: Moderator, Vice-Moderator, Stated Clerk, Permanent Clerk, and Treasurer; and whose standing Committees are: Faith and Life, Athletic, Social Education and Action, Inter-Seminary, Social, and Student-Faculty Relations. Through these the Presbytery holds regular monthly meetings, and functions to sponsor such activities as: a two-day retreat for students and faculty; a fall and spring variety show or dance; a joint communion with Pittsburgh-Xenia Seminary; a delegation of students to any Inter-Seminary conferences; and a Day of Prayer, on which a noted speaker is brought in and the day devoted to a re-thinking of the meaning of prayer. The student fee furnishes the budget for these and other affairs, and in addition the Presbytery maintains and disburses a special benevolence budget contributed to by the student body to be used each year in co-ordination with the needs of the immediate community, the Church-at-large, and the Seminary.

Chapel and Convocation

Each day Tuesday through Friday at 10:30 A. M. time is set aside for the Seminary Community to join in worship or convocation. The Tuesday period is conducted by one of the members of the faculty or administration, Wednesday is reserved for faculty committee meetings, Thursday is set aside for conference hour at which special speakers and outstanding preachers are invited to share their thoughts with the Seminary. On the second and fourth Thursday of each month the faculty meets and the Student Presbytery conducts its business on the second Thursday. Friday is generally reserved for the Senior Worship Service which is one of the opportunities for seniors to conduct worship before the faculty and student body.

The Choir

The Choir of Western Theological Seminary is composed of students, students' wives, and members of the staff, its make-up depending on the number and the abilities of those in attendance at the Seminary in any given year. Programs are given in the chapel and in the churches of the district at various times.

Recreational Opportunities

A good gymnasium, equipped with shower room, is located in Memorial Hall. The North Side branch of the Y.M.C.A. provides courtesy memberships, with the privilege of the swimming pool, to Seminary students. Tennis courts in the park facing the Seminary and the athletic field of the Allegheny High School are available to the students. A schedule of competitive sports is arranged by the athletic committee of the Student Presbytery.

Social gatherings are held throughout the year. These provide occasions for fine fellowship among students, faculty, and friends. A student wives' association holds regular meetings under the sponsorship of faculty wives and contributes appreciably to the social life of the Seminary.

PRE-SEMINARY STUDIES

College courses prior to theological seminary should provide the cultural and intellectual foundations essential to an effective theological education. They should issue in at least three broad kinds of attainment.

1. The college work of a pre-seminary student should result in the ability to use certain tools of the educated man:

(a) The ability to write and speak English clearly and correctly. English composition should have this as a specific purpose, but this purpose should also be cultivated in all written work.

(b) The ability to think clearly. In some persons, this ability is cultivated through courses in philosophy or specifically in logic. In others it is cultivated by the use of scientific method, or by dealing with critical problems in connection with literary and historical documents.

(c) The ability to read at least one foreign language and in some circumstances more than one.

2. The college work of a pre-seminary student should result in increased understanding of the world in which he lives:

(a) The world of men and ideas. This includes knowledge of English literature, philosophy and psychology.

(b) The world of nature. This is provided by knowledge of the natural sciences, including laboratory work.

(c) The world of human affairs. This is aided by knowledge of history and the social sciences.

3. The college work of the pre-seminary student should result in a sense of achievement:

(a) The degree of his mastery of his field of study is more important than the credits and grades which he accumulates.

(b) The sense of achievement may be encouraged through academic concentration, or through "honors" work, or through other plans for increasingly independent work with as much initiative on the student's part as he is able to use with profit.

Desirable College Curriculum

The American Association of Theological Schools has proposed the following college curriculum for pre-ministerial students. This is regarded by the Association as a minimum list of fields of study with which the student should have acquaintance before beginning seminary study. It is suggested that a student acquire a total of 90 semester hours, or complete approximately three fourths of his college work, in the areas listed below; there is no requirement that this be rigidly adhered to. The liberal arts background is felt to provide the best foundation for seminary work and for later professional studies.

English—literature, composition, speech and related studies. At least 6 semesters.

History—ancient, modern European, and American. At least 3 semesters.

Philosophy—orientation in history, content and method. At least 3 semesters.

Natural sciences—preferably physics, chemistry and biology. At least 2 semesters.

Social sciences—psychology, sociology, economics, political science and education. At least 6 semesters, including at least 1 semester of psychology.

Foreign languages—one or more of the following linguistic avenues to man's thought and tools of scholarly research: Latin, Greek, Hebrew, German, French. Students who anticipate post-graduate studies are urged to undertake these disciplines early in their training as opportunity offers. At least 4 semesters.

Religion—a thorough knowledge of the content of the Bible as indispensable, together with an introduction to the major religious traditions and theological problems in the context of the principal aspects of human culture outlined above. The pre-seminary student may well seek counsel of the seminary of his choice in order most profitably to use the resources of his college. At least 3 semesters.

Of the various possible areas of concentration, where areas of concentration are required, English, philosophy and history are regarded as the most desirable.

FEES AND EXPENSES*

Fees for one semester's residence:

	On Campus	Off Campus
Tuition	$200.00	$200.00
Room Rent	60.00
Meals	198.00
Student Association Fee.....	3.50	3.50
	<hr/> $461.50	<hr/> $203.50

Fees for Special Students and Auditors—$20.00 per semester hour, the maximum charge for a semester being $200.00.

Fees for the Doctor of Theology degree:

The candidate must pay $400.00 per annum for at least two years. The maximum fee will be $1,200.00, to cover a possible five-year period of study; i.e., $800.00 if the work is completed in two years, and $400.00 for one or more additional years.

Diploma fee—The diploma fee for each degree (B.D., Th.M., and Th.D.) is $10.00 and is payable April 1st.

Late Registration fee—A charge of $5.00 will be made to both graduates and undergraduates registering later than the specified time.

Transcript fee—One copy of a student's academic record will be provided without charge. A fee of $1.00 will be charged for each additional transcript.

Apartments

Memorial Hall (for married couples)

Twelve furnished apartments.....$42.00—$54.00 monthly

Lowrie Hall (for married couples and small families)

Seven furnished apartments$48.00—$67.50 monthly

*Subject to change.

All apartment rents are payable monthly in advance. Applications for apartments should be made as early as possible, to establish priority.

All bills are payable in advance on the opening day of each semester. No deductions will be allowed for absence from individual meals, although special consideration is given students who regularly do not eat in the dining hall week-ends.

Settlement of all Seminary bills is required before registering for a new semester and before graduation or the release of official transcripts.

SCHOLARSHIP ASSISTANCE AND FINANCIAL AID

Western Theological Seminary has a total endowment of $2,000,000 of which more than $200,000 is ear-marked for scholarship help to financially needy students. The income from this latter amount serves as the basis for the scholarship aid and is available through the following sources:

1. United Presbyterian students should apply for aid through their Presbyteries to the United Presbyterian Board of Christian Education. The amounts thus acquired may be supplemented from the scholarship funds of the Seminary.
2. Work Scholarships (see below).
3. Academic Scholarships.
These are available to those incoming students whose college academic achievement merits additional financial consideration. Those prospective interested students should apply through the Director of Admissions at the same time they present their academic record from college.
4. The President's Loan Fund.
Small amounts may be borrowed from the Seminary at a low rate of interest for emergency needs.
5. When necessary, arrangements for a payment plan to cover a semester's expenses may be made at the Business Office. There is a carrying charge of $5.00 for the Deferred Payment Plan.

Work Scholarship Program

A unique Work Scholarship Program was recently instituted at Western whereby a student may earn a large percentage of his fees. Under this program, students may apply for one of a variety of assignments within the Seminary and receive compensation commensurate with the duties performed.

Work Scholarships that are available include: 20 Choir Members, 4 Waiters, one each of Chapel Assistant, Choir Manager, Dormitory Clerk, Head Waiter, Library Assistant, Maintenance Assistant, Organist, Student Lounge Attendant, "Western Watch" Assistant and several Special Assignments.

Assignments are made on the basis of need and qualifications and upon recommendation of the President and approval of the Faculty. Application for a Work Scholarship is made to the President prior to the beginning of each semester. Payment is made by check at the end of each semester.

FIELD WORK

While field work is voluntary it is an invaluable part of theological education. The location of Western Seminary in the midst of the largest Presbyterian population in the world, and in the heart of the united church, affords unusual field work opportunities. Positions in churches of various sizes, and in inner-city, suburban and rural situations, are offered to Western students each year. Although the final decision always rests with the church or organization, the field work department makes every effort to place each student who requests an assignment. The attempt is also made to match student capacity with field work opportunity, in order to provide the kind of training and experience most suited to the needs and interests of the individual student.

The faculty regards field work as an integral part of the educational process, and coordinates it with the academic program. In the usual position, where the student does not assume the primary responsibility for a church and works in the field only on Sundays, no adjustment of the academic program is required. If the student assumes principal responsibility for a church, or serves as a student pastor, his program is adjusted as follows: (1) a maximum of eleven hours each semester during the first and second years; and (2) a maximum of fourteen hours each semester during the last year. The curriculum and class schedule are organized to permit these adjustments. This enables the student who assumes the principal responsibility for a church during his entire seminary education to balance the demands of his academic schedule, and his field work, by taking a four-year program. (See page 23.)

CLASSIFICATION OF STUDENTS

Western Theological Seminary offers a complete theological curriculum for candidates for the Christian ministry, teaching, directorship of Christian education programs, and related fields of service. Western admits any qualified applicant who desires a broader and deeper knowledge of the Christian faith, regardless of sex, race, nationality, or theological persuasion.

The student body is classified as follows:

Regular undergraduate students: those who are enrolled, either full time or part time, in a program leading to the Bachelor of Divinity degree. See requirements for admission, below.

Graduate students: those holding both college and seminary degrees, whether they seek a graduate degree or not. Graduate students are admitted upon presentation of a formal application, application fee, photograph, college and seminary transcripts, a letter from the ecclesiastical authority to which they are subject, an I.Q. test, a letter stating their plan of study and naming major and minor fields. A personal interview with the Director of Admissions of the Seminary and/or professors in the proposed major and minor fields is ordinarily required.

Special students: those enrolled for credit under regular admission requirements but who are not candidates for a B.D. degree.

Auditors: a limited number of persons who do not wish to study for credit are admitted as auditors, if circumstances justify. Those without college degrees must present a letter certifying their good standing in the ecclesiastical body to which they are responsible; those with degrees must present a transcript of college work.

Auditors and Special students may register for post-graduate courses with the permission of the Registrar and the professor of the course.

REQUIREMENTS FOR ADMISSION

Applicants seeking degrees ordinarily move through three categories under the supervision of the Admissions Committee of the Faculty.

1. PRE-ENROLLMENT: An applicant may pre-enroll any time before the beginning of his senior year in college. Approval is granted by the Faculty Committee on Admissions upon receipt of the following documents:

- a. A formal application (found at the back of the catalogue or available upon request) must be submitted by a student desiring admission to Western Theological Seminary.
- b. Application fee. A check or money order for $15.00 must accompany the application. This will be applied to the first semester's tuition. While the fee will be refunded if the application is rejected, it is not returnable if the application is withdrawn.
- c. I.Q. test. The Seminary will correspond with the applicant's college concerning an I.Q. test. If none is available, the applicant must come to the Seminary for testing.
- d. Interview. A personal interview with the Director of Admissions of the Seminary is required. Where it is not possible for the applicant to come to the Seminary, the Director of Admissions may suggest a member of the Board of Trustees of the Seminary or an alumnus in the applicant's immediate area who will interview him.
- e. A letter from the appropriate ecclesiastical authority is required of applicants seeking draft deferment.

2. ADMISSION: After the opening of the senior year in college an applicant should add the following credentials. Admission may be granted conditionally or unconditionally at the discretion of the Admissions Committee of the Faculty.

- a. Certificate of health. A statement from a physician certifying the applicant's sound physical health.
- b. Transcript. An official transcript from the Registrar of the college or university, showing grades for at least three years of college work.
- c. Personality and Aptitude Tests. Shortly after indicating his desire to be admitted, each applicant will receive information concerning a group of personality tests. He is to complete them as directed and return to Dr. Clifford E. Davis, Church Vocations Counselor, Western Theological Seminary, Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road, Pittsburgh 12, Pennsylvania.
- d. An extensive (500—1000 words) statement in the applicant's handwriting describing his family, educational and religious background, placing particular emphasis upon his motives for desiring to enter the Seminary and the ministry.

All documents in the Pre-Enrollment and Admission categories should be in the hands of the Director of Admissions by April 15 preceding the September for which admission is sought.

3. MATRICULATION: An additional credential is required after graduation from college: a transcript showing the degree and date of graduation of the applicant. This, together with all other credentials, will be reviewed by the faculty at their first meeting in September, and upon approval the applicant becomes an official degree candidate and is enrolled for the course of study.

After admission is granted, and before September 1st, each new student is asked to submit three (3) recent photographs (not snap shots) for the Registrar's Office, Field Work Office, and Publicity Office.

Transfer Students

Students transferring from other seminaries are required to submit, in addition to the foregoing, a complete transcript of previous seminary work and a letter of dismissal from the Dean or President.

Foreign Students

Applicants from foreign countries will be required to give evidence of proficiencies in the English language before their admission. All correspondence concerning admission to the Seminary should be addressed to the Director of Admissions, Western Theological Seminary, Ridge Avenue and Brighton Road, Pittsburgh 12, Pennsylvania.

PHILOSOPHY OF ADMISSIONS

The number of students admitted to Western Seminary each year is determined by a student-faculty ratio of 10-1. The size of each entering class, accordingly, is contingent upon the number graduating or dropping out of the student body before the new school year begins each September.

The faculty has, therefore, adopted policies designed to bring to Western a group of men whose understanding of Christian vocation, maturity and intelligence, prove them to be suited for a rigorous challenge in theological education. A substantial file of information on each applicant is completed before his name comes before the Faculty Committee on Admissions; the papers that each applicant must submit are listed above. The decision of the Admissions Committee is based on all this information, and, in case of continuing doubt, an applicant may be asked to meet personally with the Committee.

The Faculty policy on Admissions requires that students meet certain minimum qualifications. These have been determined by extensive observation of pastors and by tests which themselves have been repeatedly corrected and revised. Tests of personality and intelligence are considered together with the applicant's college grade average and other data in his file. Students whose college average, tests, and personal circumstances meet the minimum requirement are admitted outright, although they may be required to complete a course of individually guided reading and study during the first year if there are material deficiencies of pre-theological preparation.

Certain other applicants, rather than being refused, are listed for possible admission. Students thus listed may be admitted later in the school year if the expansion of the Faculty or other considerations make possible the admission of a larger junior class. Students thus listed cannot assume that they will be able to enroll at Western, since the decision in their cases necessarily must be postponed until the summer preceding matriculation. Students from unaccredited colleges or with marked educational deficiencies are ordinarily listed rather than being admitted outright. It should be understood, however, that applicants of unusual promise are considered for immediate admission without respect to peculiarities of background.

At the end of the junior year, all students are appraised individually to determine whether they should continue in the Seminary or whether their place should be given to a better qualified applicant. While the faculty reserves the right to drop a student from the Seminary at any time, those who survive the junior review ordinarily will graduate upon completing the published requirements for the Bachelor of Divinity degree.

Any student admitted may be required to fulfill certain conditions which will be specified during the first two weeks of the semester. Ordinarily these consist of readings and/or courses designed to remedy deficiencies in pre-theological education. Under the personal guidance of a professor, each such student must satisfy the faculty that he has fulfilled his requirement before being granted unconditional standing. A student failing to complete work thus assigned will be dropped at the end of the first year of study and may be dropped at any earlier time at the discretion of the faculty. The attachment of conditions of this kind is regarded by the faculty as a normal part of each student's education for the ministry.

ACADEMIC STANDARDS

A student is not permitted to take courses at other institutions during the academic year without the consent of the Faculty.

The following scale of grading is used uniformly by all professors:

A	(numerically equivalent to)	3.000
A—		2.750
B+		2.250
B		2.000
B—		1.750
C+		1.250
C		1.000
C—		0.750
D+		0.250
D		0.000
D—	minus	0.250
F	(Failure)	minus 1.000
I	(Incomplete)	minus 1.000
	until work is completed.

A student must maintain a 1.000 grade average to carry a full schedule of classes the following semester.

If a student falls below a 1.000 average, he is placed on probation during the next semester. Unless he raises his cumulative average to 1.000 during that semester, he is subject to dismissal.

A student must have an average of at least 2.000 to carry more than 16 hours. A request for such permission is addressed to the Curriculum Committee for Faculty approval.

A student must secure the approval of the professor and the Faculty to add or drop a course after registration. Forms for these requests are to be obtained at the Registrar's Office.

When an I (Incomplete) is received, the course must be completed, all conditions met, and examinations passed one month after the semester; otherwise the grade of I will become F. Exceptions are to be made only by Faculty action.

When an F is received as a result of failure to do satisfactory work in a required course, or failure to complete the work within the specified time, the course must be repeated.

A minimum average of 1.000 over the full curriculum is required for graduation.

A student who is on probation is not eligible for election to a student office nor to represent the Seminary in any capacity.

Regular students require 88 hours with a cumulative average of 1.000 to receive the B.D. degree. Honor students are required to complete 86 hours.

ACADEMIC REQUIREMENTS FOR THE B.D. DEGREE

The degree of Bachelor of Divinity is conferred upon any properly qualified college student upon completion of the three-year curriculum in theology, or its equivalent, as follows:

1. Completion of a minimum of 88 semester hours' work.
(Except for students in double-honors program—see page 26.)
2. Presentation of a thesis.
3. Attainment of an average grade of C (1 quality point) throughout the seminary course.
4. Satisfactory conducting of a complete service of worship in the Seminary chapel with students and faculty in attendance.

Students transferring from other theological seminaries must be in residence at Western Seminary for a minimum of one full academic year in order to become a candidate for the Bachelor of Divinity degree.

GRADUATE STUDIES

Master of Theology

The degree of Master of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The applicant must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and a theological degree from a seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.

2. In addition to the regular application required of all students, a written application for candidacy for the degree of Master of Theology must be presented to the faculty, indicating the major and minor fields in which the applicant wishes to pursue his studies.

3. A student must be in residence at this seminary for a minimum of one academic year following his acceptance as a candidate, and must complete courses equivalent to 24 semester hours of regular curriculum work.

4. The fields of study are defined as follows: (1) The Bible. (2) Church History and History of Doctrine. (3) Theology, Philosophy of Religion and Ethics. (4) Pastoral Theology and Christian Education. The candidate must take a minimum of twelve (12) semester hours in his major field, and six (6) semester hours in his minor field. Courses in the other fields may be substituted with the permission of the Committee on Graduate Studies. Upon being accepted as a candidate, a program of study for the entire course shall be submitted to the Committee on Graduate Studies for approval.

5. The candidate must present in duplicate a thesis on a theme approved by his major professor. The thesis must be submitted by April 1 of the year in which the degree is to be received.

6. The candidate must pass a reading examination in German or French. This examination must be passed satisfactorily before the thesis subject may be approved.

7. The candidate must pass comprehensive written examinations in his major and minor fields, and an oral examination on his thesis conducted by a committee appointed by the faculty.

Doctor of Theology

The degree of Doctor of Theology is conferred upon students who fulfill the following requirements:

1. The candidate must have a bachelor's degree from an accredited college or university, and a theological degree from a seminary accredited by the American Association of Theological Schools.

2. The candidate must pass qualifying examinations in the following fields: the Bible, including an ability to read the Old Testament in Hebrew and the New Testament in Greek; church history; and theology, including philosophy of religion and ethics. Qualifying examinations may also be required in Christian education and practical theology, including homiletics. For those who will major in the Theological or Historical fields a general working knowledge of the Biblical language so as to exhibit competence in exegesis, rather than a reading knowledge, is required. Following the written examinations, the applicant must submit to an oral examination conducted by the entire faculty. Qualifying examinations are given the last week of April and the last week of September.

3. The candidate must select one of two fields of study, the Biblical or the Theological and Historical, as a major and the other as a minor and, with the advice of the professor in the chosen major field, submit to the Committee on Graduate Studies, for approval, a plan of study for the entire course. The minor will consist of such studies as the Committee deems necessary for competency in the field. The candidate must pursue the course of studies for not less than two nor more than five years. The exact number of course credits required in each year will be determined by the Committee on Graduate Studies.

4. The candidate must present himself for comprehensive written examinations covering both major and minor fields, followed by oral examinations conducted by the Committee on Graduate Studies. These examinations may be taken after completion of one year of studies; they must be satisfactorily completed at least one year before he presents his dissertation.

5. The candidate must exhibit a reading knowledge of at least two modern languages other than his native tongue. These examinations must be passed satisfactorily before research for the dissertation is begun.

6. The candidate must present in triplicate a dissertation which gives satisfactory evidence of technical competence and adds to or modifies previous knowledge in his major field.

7. The candidate must pass a final oral examination on the dissertation conducted by the entire faculty.

Note: Students who have begun work toward a doctorate in other seminaries or universities, and who wish to transfer to this seminary, must submit to the regular qualifying examinations. They must also spend at least one year under the instruction of Western's faculty, meet the requirements in languages and comprehensive examinations, and spend at least one additional year in thesis research.

The number of candidates allowed for each department will be determined by the Committee on Curriculum of the Board of Trustees and the Committee on Graduate Studies of the faculty.

Master's Degree in Religious Education at the University of Pittsburgh

The churches are offering more opportunities for professionally trained men and women to serve as directors of Christian education and pastor's assistants than there are qualified persons to accept them.

The regular curriculum leading to the B.D. degree is an excellent preparation for this work, including, as it does, various required and elective courses in Christian education and practical theology. However, Western Theological Seminary cooperates with the University of Pittsburgh in a course of studies whereby college graduates can secure the Master of Education or the Master of Arts degree (with a major in religious education) from the University of Pittsburgh by completing a year of study in a combined seminary and university course. The work is about equally divided between the two institutions.

THE REGULAR CURRICULUM

The regular curriculum of the Seminary provides a thorough course of study for the candidate for the ministry. It consists of a required core extending into the middler year, supplemented by elective choices during the middler and senior years. The Bible is studied thoroughly both in its original languages and in translation; in the fields of theology, philosophy of religion, ethics, church history and the practical disciplines there is abundant reading in both sources and the most competent secondary literature.

THE FOUR-YEAR PROGRAM

This program is strongly recommended by the Faculty for all students since it gives a student more opportunity for assimilation, study, and research which only time can provide. It is mandatory for men with heavy field work responsibilities, since they do not have the time in the three-year program for even minimal assimilation and study.

THE HONORS CURRICULA

At the end of the junior year, a student may apply for admission to one or both of the honors curricula. Permission is granted on the basis of the first year's academic record, student motivation, and the applicant's freedom to devote the necessary time to the program of study. The honors curricula provide courses of study in which sources are read in the original languages: in the Biblical field, the honors course provides advanced instruction in the Biblical tongues and a sequence of sources that utilize these languages; in the field of historical theology, honors students master one or more of the modern languages in order to read theological and historical literature in each of the main epochs of church history. The student who elects one of the honors curricula ordinarily does so in preparation for the ministry. The election of both honors curricula more logically points toward graduate study. The honors programs afford the abler student an opportunity for concentrated work which nevertheless does not exclude due attention to fields of study outside the curriculum of special emphasis.

DESCRIPTION OF THE COURSES OF STUDY

111. ENGLISH BIBLE.

Studies of the historical books of the Old Testament, using the King James and Revised Standard Versions, with outside readings. Attention is given to the development of study principles, attitudes, and methods. Two hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required. Mr. Freedman.

112. ENGLISH BIBLE.

Continuation of course 111 into the New Testament. Synoptic Gospels and Acts. Two hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required. Mr. Orr.

113. BIBLICAL LANGUAGE.

A course designed to lead students to an appreciation of Hebrew and Greek as the languages of biblical revelation. From the beginning the student learns inductively to read from the Old Testament Hebrew and corresponding Septuagint. Emphasis is placed on the acquisition of a working vocabulary in both languages as the ground for further reading and the illumination of key biblical concepts. Students who show unusual ability will be transferred into courses 115 and 117 to allow an opportunity to advance into intensive linguistic study. Four hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required (except as noted in courses 115 and 117). Mr. Freedman and Mr. Walther.

114. BIBLICAL LANGUAGE.

Continuation of course 113. The Greek New Testament will be introduced: passages with Old Testament parallels will be read in the two languages. Four hours weekly, second semester. Juniors. Required (except as noted in courses 116 and 118). Mr. Freedman and Mr. Walther.

115. OLD TESTAMENT HEBREW.

A special course for students who show special ability in biblical languages. The Hebrew language is introduced with a view to developing as rapidly as possible a reading facility in the Old Testament books. Two hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required of students who are advanced from course 113. Mr. Hills.

116. OLD TESTAMENT HEBREW.

117. NEW TESTAMENT GREEK.

A special course for students who show special ability in biblical languages. The Synoptic Gospels and Acts are read to develop familiarity with Koine Greek and to increase facility in translation. Two hours weekly, first semester. Juniors. Required of students who are advanced from course 113. Mr. Orr.

118. NEW TESTAMENT GREEK.

121. BIBLICAL INTRODUCTION (OLD TESTAMENT).

The course begins with a consideration of the text, versions, and canon of the Old Testament followed by a brief survey of the history of criticism. Then the major literary units are treated more in detail with the main emphasis on the historical books. Outside reading in modern critical works. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required. Mr. Hills.

122. BIBLICAL INTRODUCTION (NEW TESTAMENT).

Beginning with a survey of the historical and religious background of the New Testament, each New Testament book will be subjected to literary and critical study. Methods of textual criticism will be examined, and the development of the canon will be noted. Finally, the transmission and translation of the text will be studied including the history of the English Bible. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required. Mr. Walther.

123. BIBLICAL EXEGESIS (NEW TESTAMENT).

The methods and materials of exegesis are introduced leading to a detailed study of Pauline Epistles. Exercises in formal, written exegesis are assigned. The original text and critical commentaries are stressed. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required (see courses H125-H128). Mr. Orr.

124. BIBLICAL EXEGESIS (OLD TESTAMENT).

Continuation of course 123 in the Old Testament. Prophetic books. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required (see courses H125-H128). Mr. Freedman.

H125. HEBREW EXEGESIS.

Selected books and passages of the Old Testament prophets will be read in the original with special attention to exegetical detail. Exercise in formal, written exegesis will be required and may be prepared in conjunction with courses H127 and H128. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required in place of course 124. Prerequisite: courses 115 and 116. Honors course. Mr. Hills.

H126. HEBREW EXEGESIS.

Continuation of course H125. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required in place of course 124. Prerequisite: courses 115 and 116. Honors course. Mr. Hills.

H127. GREEK EXEGESIS.

Pauline Epistles will be read in the original text with special attention to exegetical detail. Exercise in formal, written exegesis will be required and may be prepared in conjunction with courses H125 and H126. Two hours weekly, first semester. Middlers. Required in place of course 123. Prerequisite: courses 117 and 118. Honors course. Mr. Walther.

H128. GREEK EXEGESIS.

Continuation of course H127. Two hours weekly, second semester. Middlers. Required in equivalence of course 123. Prerequisite: courses 117 and 118. Honors course. Mr. Walther.

131. BIBLICAL THEOLOGY (NEW TESTAMENT).

A course designed to acquaint students with the principal themes, the progress of thought, and the theological terminology of the Bible; and, together with course 132, to study the unity of the Old and New Testaments and the continuity of biblical religion. Two hours weekly, second semester. Seniors. Required. Mr. Walther.

132. BIBLICAL THEOLOGY (OLD TESTAMENT).

Continuation of course 131. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Mr. Hills.

133. BIBLICAL LITERATURE (NEW TESTAMENT).

Studies of the Catholic Epistles and The Apocalypse. In addition to a careful survey of the contents some attention is given to literary and historical problems involved. Two hours weekly, first semester. Seniors. Required. Mr. Orr.

134. BIBLICAL LITERATURE (OLD TESTAMENT).

FELLOWSHIPS AND PRIZES

1. The Sylvester S. Marvin Fellowship, paying up to one thousand dollars, may be assigned to that member of the senior class who is recommended by the faculty as having achieved the highest standard in all departments of the Seminary curriculum, provided that his average be above 2.000. The faculty reserves the right to impose special tests and examinations in making this award. It is offered to those who take the entire course of three years in this institution. The recipient must pledge himself to a year of postgraduate study within three years of the award, in a field of study approved by the faculty. He is required to furnish quarterly reports of his progress. The money will be paid in three equal installments, on the first day of October, January, and April. Prolonged absence from the classroom in the discharge of extra-seminary duties makes a student ineligible for the fellowship.

2. The Michael Wilson Keith Memorial Homiletical Prize. This prize was founded in 1919 by the Keith Bible Class of the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis, Pennsylvania, by an endowment of two thousand dollars, in memory of the Reverend Michael Wilson Keith, D.D., the founder of the class and pastor of the church from 1911 to 1917. This foundation was established in grateful remembrance of his service to his country as Chaplain of the 111th Infantry Regiment. He fell while performing his duty at the front in France. The prize is awarded to a member of the senior class who has spent three years in this Seminary and has taken the highest standing in the department of homiletics. The winner of the prize is expected to preach in the First Presbyterian Church of Coraopolis and teach the Keith Bible Class one Sunday after the award is made. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

3. In February 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the John Watson Prize in New Testament Greek. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Greek New Testament. The passage for 1957-1958, I John 1; and for 1958-1959, Romans 14:1-23.

4. In September, 1919, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, established a prize with an endowment of one thousand dollars, to be known as the William B. Watson Prize in Hebrew. It will be awarded to that member of the senior class who shall submit the best grammatical and exegetical treatment of an assigned portion of the Hebrew Old Testament. The passage for 1957-1958, Daniel 9:25-27; and for 1958-1959, Psalm 110.

5. In February, 1938, the Men's Committee of the Shadyside Presbyterian Church, by pledging an annual contribution of fifty dollars to be used for the purchase of books, established a prize to be known as the Hugh Thomson Kerr Moderator Prize. This prize is to be awarded to that member of the graduating class who has exhibited, throughout the three years of the seminary course, leadership, originality, and accomplishments beyond the normal requirements for graduation. This student will be selected by vote of the faculty, and the award will be made by the president at the time of the annual commencement. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

6. In October, 1947, the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald established a prize in the amount of fifty dollars to be known as the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald Prize in Church History. It is to be awarded to a member of the graduating class with the highest grades in church history. The award will be made by the vote of the faculty upon the recommendation of the professor of ecclesiastical history and history of doctrine at the time of the annual commencement. The recipient will be expected to preach at a morning service in the First Presbyterian Church of McDonald within two Sundays following graduation, for which he will receive compensation commensurate with that prevailing at the time. It will be the privilege of the faculty to withhold the award when in its opinion no student merits it in a given year.

7. On November 17, 1953, the Board of Trustees approved and accepted the creation of a scholarship fund by Seminary President Clifford E. Barbour as a memorial to his mother, to be known as "The Jennie Rigg Barbour Memorial Prize." This prize, paying four hundred dollars annually, is to be assigned to that member of the graduating class who has taken his full course of instruction in this institution and who has achieved the second highest academic rank of his class, if in the judgment of the faculty he is worthy in all other respects. It is hoped that the student will use this income for further study either within an academic institution or by the enlargement of his own library.

8. An entrance prize of three hundred dollars is offered by the Seminary to applicants for admission to the junior class. It will be awarded upon the basis of a competitive examination conducted early in the first semester. Candidates must indicate to the Office of the Registrar by not later than the first week of classes their intention to compete, and such statement of their purpose must specify the subjects elected for examination. The election of subjects for examination shall be made from the following list:

LATIN—Latin grammar, translation of Latin, Latin composition

CLASSICAL GREEK—Greek grammar, translation of Greek, Greek composition

HEBREW—Hebrew grammar, translation of Hebrew, Hebrew composition

GERMAN—Translation of German into English and English into German

FRENCH—Translation of French into English and English into French

PHILOSOPHY—(a) History of Philosophy; (b) Psychology; (c) Ethics; (d) Metaphysics

HISTORY—(a) Ancient Oriental History; (b) Graeco-Roman History to A.D. 476; (c) Mediaeval History to the Reformation; (d) Modern History

OTHER SUBJECTS on approval of the faculty

Each competitor shall elect from the above list three subjects for examination. Each division of Philosophy and History shall be considered one subject, and a candidate may elect only one subject from each of these fields.

The awards of the scholarships will be made to the competitors passing the most satisfactory examinations, provided their average does not fall below 90 per cent. The payment will be made in two installments, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1. Failure to maintain a high standard in classroom work, or prolonged absence, will debar the recipients from receiving the second installment.

9. In May, 1914, Miss Anna M. Reed, of Cross Creek, Pennsylvania, established a scholarship with an endowment of three thousand dollars, to be known as the Andrew Reed Scholarship, with the following conditions: The income of this scholarship to be awarded to the student who upon entering shall pass the best competitive examination in the English Bible with a grade of not less than 85 per cent; the successful competitor to have the use of it throughout the entire course of three years, provided that his attendance and class standing continue to be satisfactory. Two payments of twenty-five dollars each will be made each year, the first at the time the award is made and the second on April 1.

10. In July, 1920, Mrs. Robert A. Watson, of Columbus, Ohio, with an endowment of one thousand dollars, established the Joseph Watson Greek Prize, to be awarded to the student who passes the best examination in classical Greek as he enters the junior class of the Seminary. The texts upon which the examination will be given are Xenophon's Anabasis, Book II, or Plato's Apology, Chapters I-X.

DONATIONS AND BEQUESTS

All donations or bequests to the Seminary should be made to the "Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, located in North Side, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania." The proper legal form for making a bequest is as follows:

"I hereby give and bequeath to Western Theological Seminary of the Presbyterian Church in the United States of America, incorporated in the State of Pennsylvania, the following: . . ."

NOTE: If the person desires the Seminary to get the full amount designated, free of tax, the following statement should be added: "The collateral inheritance tax to be paid out of my estate."

On account of the decline in the rate of interest, a substantial increase in endowment is necessary if the Seminary is to maintain its reputation for efficiency and high standard of scholarship.

The Memorial idea can be carried out either in the erection of a building or in the endowment of any of the funds.
